REPORTS FROM PARIS.

A Committee of Safety—Why Gen. Cluseret Was Arrested—Railway Payments Into the Commune Treasury—Versailles Victories Wanted.

PARIS, May 2.—The Commune has issued a decree appointing a Committee of Safety. The arrest of Gen. CLUSERET was ordered because he was guilty of negligence, by which the safety of Fort Issy was compromised. The session of the Commune on Monday was as excited one. Serious charges were made against Gen. CLUSERET, and the suggestion was even made that he be shot within forty-eight hours. There is now an immense concentration of Communist troops in and about Fort Issy. The railway companies have paid the sums demanded from them by the Commune, and 1,900,000 francs have already been received into the Treasury from that source. Weekly payments will hereafter be made by the companies. The official journal of the Commune denies the reports, emanating from Versailles, of victories for the Assembliste forces. The Freemasons have been ordered to retake the banners which they had planted on the ramparts of the city, the Versailles Government and troops declining to respect them.

Another Version of the Attack on Fort Issy—More Bombardment—The Versailles Gaining Ground.

PARIS, May 1, via LONDON, May 2.—The Rappel, of this evening, announces that the Versaillists have attacked Fort Issy and were repulsed. Workmen who were sent from Paris last night had unspiked the guns in the fort, which was thereby enabled to make an effective resistance. The bombardment of forts Vanvres and Montrouge is continued.

There was an engagement before Hantes-Bruyères today, and a general action is expected this evening. The Versaillists are daily gaining ground. Another dispatch says: The reoccupation of Fort Issy by the Communists is again contradicted, and it is said the fort is entirely deserted. A force of 15,000 National Guards has carried a Versaillist barricade in the lower part of the village of Issy after an engagement. The Moniteur of this evening says it is rumored that Gen. DOMBROWSKI and staff has been made prisoners by the Assemblists at Asnieres.

Gen. Dombrowski Not Taken Prisoner—Fort Issy Not Captured Yet.

PARIS, Tuesday Afternoon, May 2.—The report that Gen. DOMBROWSKI was taken prisoner is not confirmed. The Versaillists have at no time occupied Fort Issy. After the desertion of its panic-stricken garrison, the volunteers raised by the Commune issued from the city, and not only recovered the fort which they found empty, but after hard fighting and at great sacrifice of life, drove the enemy from the trenches, carried one of their barricades, and regained possession of the cemetery of Issy. They made an attempt to retake Les Moulineaux, but failed, losing heavily in killed and wounded. Every effort will be made to hold Fort Issy, but, should its capture appear inevitable, it will be blown up.

Movements of the Versailles Troops—Surrender in Paris—Another Attack Expected at Nanterre.

PARIS, May 2—Evening.—The Versailles skirmishers have been expelled from the park and cemetery of Issy. New works are being constructed around Issy, rendering the forts more formidable than ever. The enemy's fire today have been mainly directed against the Porte des Ternes and Levallois. A fresh attack on Neuilly is expected, and reinforcements have been sent there. Scaffolding has been erected around the column in the Place Vendome. The principal barricades in Paris have been converted into strong earthworks. The labor on these internal defenses is ceaseless.

VERSAILLES REPORTS.

Extraordinary Action of the Insurgents—Another Battle Expected.

LONDON, May 2.—The Times' Versailles special dispatch says the insurgents at Neuilly are themselves throwing petroleum-shells into Paris, to keep up the indignation of the populace against the Versailles Government. The people are led to believe that they come from the lines of the army of the Assembly. The Reds have been successful in the elections at Le Mans and Narbonne.

The Daily News' special dispatch from Versailles says that Marshal MCMAHON has sent a column of 25,000 troops against the insurgents, who are making a sortie by way of Choisy le Roi. A great battle is expected to-morrow. A new army, for the reinforcement of that enveloping Paris, is being formed at Auxerre.

The Chateau of Issy Surrendered—Fort Issy Surrounded—The Lyons Troubles Ended.

VERSAILLES, May 2.—The Clamart railway station was captured last night by the Chasseurs, at the point of the bayonet. Three hundred of the insurgents were killed in the action. The chateau of Issy, the defense of which the insurgents had temporarily abandoned, was simultaneously attacked by two regiments of Versailles troops. Three hundred Communards were found in the supposed deserted castle, who surrendered to the assailants, and will arrive here today as prisoners of war. Gen. VINOY, who is now here, is given the credit for these exploits. Fort Issy is, in consequence of the recent victories, completely surrounded by Versailles troops. The truth of the rumors that disturbances have occurrid in Lyons is officially denied. The result of the recent elections is satisfactory to the Government.

Cannonading Along the Whole Line—Important Operations in Progress.

VERSAILLES, May 2—Evening.—Cannonading is going on along the whole line; a breach has been made in the walls of Issy. In the Assembly today Minister PICARD stated that important operations were now in progress, and most important results had been achieved.

GERMANY.

Important Action Relative to the French Situation—Alsace and Lorraine in the Parliament—The Peace Conference—The Indemnity.

LONDON, May 2.—A special dispatch from Berlin to the Telegraph says that a council of war held in that city, has agreed to give a certain limit of time to the Communists to submit to the Versailles Government, at the expiration of which the Prussians will interfere to compel such action. The Versailles authorities are said to have been notified of this decision by the Prussian Government.

BERLIN, May 2.—In the German Parliament, to-day, the bill incorporating Alsace and Lorraine with the Empire, came before the House. Prince BISMARCK restated the arguments on which the measure was based. The annexation of these provinces to Germany was necessary to give her a bulwark against the recurrence of French aggression, cases of which had been so frequent in times past. One instance of comparatively recent date was cited. On the 6th of August, 1866, France sent to Berlin an ultimatum, demanding the cession of Mayence. The illness of the Emperor of the French alone prevented hostilities then. During the late war foreign Powers proposed the neutralization of Alsace and Lorraine, but that would be insufficient for Germany, and could not be thought of. "As for the inhabitants still averse to their Fatherland," said the Prince in conclusion, "we shall strive to win them back." The bill was referred to a committee. The Prussian Cross Gazette denies that the negotiations for the treaty of peace with France are to be transferred from Brussels to Berlin. The North German Gazette says the German plenipotentiaries at Brussels have proposed the payment of the five milliards by France in quarterly instalments, beginning June 2, 1871, and ending March 2, 1874, the payment to be made in gold or its equivalent in paper. The French envoys have offered to pay the first milliard in cash and the remainder in rentes convertible later. Fortunately, the German armies hold possession of sufficient territory in France to secure the payment of the indemnity in accordance with the preliminary terms of peace, should no other agreement be arrived at.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Parliamentary Proceedings—The Administration in Ireland—Ocean Postage—A Motion to Reduce the Rate Defeated.

LONDON, May 2.—In the Chamber of Peers to-night Lords KIMBERLY, RUSSEL and GREY criticised the Whig Administration of Ireland, which was ably defended by Earl GRANVILLE. In the House of Commons there was an interesting debate on ocean postage. Mr. SELELY moved a resolve that the Postmaster-General should make arrangements with the Postal Department of the United States for the reduction of the rate of postage on letters between England and America to one penny. He pointed out the importance of such a reduction to the commercial and poorer classes, and urged that it would serve to strengthen the ties between the two nations. Mr. MUNDELLA and Dr. HEMON followed with speeches in support of the resolve. Mr. MONSELL, the Postmaster-General, thought that pending the present contracts with the ocean steamer lines, a reduction would be impossible. He proceeded to argue generally against a change. Each reduction, he said, had failed to bring about an increase of business sufficient to compensate the department. The shilling rate produced £120,000, the sixpenny rate £98,000; the threepenny rate brought in only £47,000. The total cost of the ocean steamer mail service, as per contract was £683,000; the total receipts were £365,000; the loss to the Department, £470,000. Mr. JAMES WHITE understood the Post-office had a surplus of £1,900,000, which might be applied to the reduction of the ocean rate. Mr. GLADSTONE opposed the resolve, and begged that the matter might be left to the discretion of the Government. Mr. SELELY scouted the Postmaster-General's estimate of losses. He had reason to know that the Government at Washington was prepared for reduction, and England should be ready to meet it. The resolve was defeated, and a substitute embodying Mr. GLADSTONE'S view was carried.

The House then adjourned.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

The Papal Guarantees in the Italian Senate—The Swedes Emigrating—Reduction of the Hungarian Army.

FLORENCE, May 1.—The Italian Senate continues the discussion of the question of the Papal guarantees. An amendment to the bill abolishing the Pope's right to grant exequatur to Consuls of foreign Powers has been rejected. A demonstration planned to celebrate the events of 1849, in Rome, proved a failure, the Government having been warned that disturbances were intended by the International Society. The report which has been current that changes are intended in the diplomatic representation of Italy abroad, is ascertained to be without foundation.

CARLSRUHE, May 2.—The Government of Baden has decided to abolish all the foreign Legations of the Grand Duchy after November next.

BUCHAREST, May 1.—The Roumanian Government, as a measure of economy, has decided upon the disbandment of the third battalion of each regiment of infantry, cavalry and artillery in its standing army, and the abolition of the regiment of Chasseurs. This step will reduce the standing army about 10,000 men.

LONDON, May 1.—The German residents of London celebrated the return of peace by a festival yesterday. The London Post announces that the Emperor NAPOLEON is still suffering from rheumatic pains.

Demonstration by Unpaid Workmen—A Riot Avoided by Payment.

BRUSSELS, May 2.—Five hundred workmen, who were employed in digging a canal in the forest of Hertogenwald, marched in a body to Verviers and demanded the payment of their wages, for some time overdue. Their appearance caused much excitement and apprehension. The gendarmes proved unreliable and were confined to their barracks. The town finally paid the workmen their wages, and all fears of a disorder were allayed.

A Political Festival in Madrid—A Disturbance.

MADRID, May 2.—A festival was given today in commemoration of the rising against the French in 1808. The King and Queen took part in the ceremonies. A slight disturbance was created by the Republicans, but it was easily repressed. Several arrests were made.

CUBA.

Sailing of the British Flying Squadron—Havana Stock Market.

HAVANA, May 2.—The British flying squadron sailed today for Bermuda. Exchange on London, 18¼@18½; on the United States, currency, 60 days, 3@5½ discount; do., gold, 60 days, 6@6½ premium.

CENTRAL AMERICA.

Completion of the Darien Canal Survey—A Route Thirty Miles Long, with 512 Feet Elevation Found—The Panama Revolution—An American Man-of-War to Cruise for the Mosquito—Colombian Affairs.

ASPINWALL, April 25, via KINGSTON, Jam., May 2.—The survey of the Napini route for a ship canal to connect the Atlantic with the Pacific has been completed. The explorers assert that the line will be less than thirty miles from the Pacific to the Atrato, and the elevation 512 feet. "Tunnels and locks, it is said, will obviate the difficulties presented by the elevation. The cost of the work, it is estimated, will be $80,000,000. The suitability of the Tuyra route is undetermined. The explorers met at the highest point of the route. Within a fortnight the route question will be disposed of.

PANAMA.

The revolution in Chiriqui continues. CORSO so has imposed a forced loan. The American steamer Monitor has not been recaptured. Capts. SELFRIDGE and DRUM have had a consultation, and they are determined to send the United States steamer Resaca to recover the vessel. The British war-ship Fawn will probably gain the Resaca. The organization of the army is progressing.

COLOMBIA.

SANTA MARTHA, April 20.—Thirteen gold bars, a portion of the treasure stolen from the mail, have been recovered. Sixty thousand dollars are still missing. The twelve robbers were captured, but one has since escaped.

THE PACIFIC SLOPE.

Meeting of the American Medical Association in San Francisco—Death of a New-York Banker—Specie for China and Japan—Cherries.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—Over two hundred physicians from the Eastern States are here to attend the Convention of the American Medical Association. The whole number of delegates is between 300 and 400. Dr. ALFRED STILLE, of Philadelphia, was elected Chairman. The California State Medical Society and local organizations have made extensive arrangements for their entertainment. The Medical Journal Association have elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Dr. E. F. DAWSON, of New-York; Vice-President, Dr. H. GIBBONS, Jr., of San Francisco; Secretary, Dr. F. H. DAVIS, of Chicago.....A. S. FOSTER, a banker of New-York, aged sixty, who has been ill here some time, and who expected to start for the East today with his family, died suddenly this morning of hemorrhage of the lungs. His remains will be embalmed....The steam-ship America, which sailed yesterday for China and Japan, carried $267,000 in coin and bullion.... Cherries were in market here yesterday. Notwithstanding the drouth, the fruit crop of the season will be immense. The vintage is estimated at 10,000,000 gallons.....JOHN KENNEDY, confined in the County Jail, committed suicide today.....J. F. W. LEEFINGWELL, an old real estate agent of this city, died last night....The weather is very warm.

The Official Report of Observations.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 2—7½ P. M.—The barometer continues falling at San Francisco, with decided increase of temperature; it has remained stationary in the Rocky Mountains, with rising temperature. The low pressure on Monday evening in Missouri has extended eastward, and the barometer, which had risen on the lakes and Southern States, is now stationary or falling. The pressure has risen in the Eastern States. The clear and clearing weather in the Middle and Eastern States is now being rapidly succeeded by the clouds and light rain which now prevail east of the Mississippi. North-east winds continue to prevail on the lakes; southerly winds on the Gulf.

PROBABILITIES.

It is very probable that cloudy, and, perhaps, rainy weather will, on Wednesday, be experienced at San Francisco; increased north-east winds, with rain, are probable for the lakes; cloudy weather, with light rain, along the Atlantic coast, and fresh southerly winds on the Gulf.

Meteorological Report.

SUMMIT OF MOUNT WASHINGTON, May 2.—Observations at 1 P. M.: Barometer, 30.06; change, plus .18; thermometer, 26°; change, minus 3°; relative humidity, .81; wind, west; velocity of wind, ten miles per hour. This morning a beautiful frostwork covered everything about the Summit. At 10 A. M. the clouds left the Summit, and the country was spread out in a grand panorama on either side.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 2.—The vote in this city today was 728 to 266 to permit the sale of ale and strong beer. Not one third the usual vote was cast.

CONNECTICUT.

The State Legislature to Meet at Hartford Today.

A Caucus of the Republican Members—Jewell Probably Elected Governor—The Result of Fraudulent Voting.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

HARTFORD, May 2.—The Legislature meets here at 10 A. M. to-morrow. A caucus of Republican members was held this evening, at which it was agreed to appoint a Committee of the two Houses to investigate alleged frauds in the vote for Governor in the Fourth Ward of New-Haven and in the towns of Enfield and Cheshire. It is admitted by both parties that there were 100 more votes counted in the Fourth Ward of New-Haven than were polled, but the Democrats take the extraordinary ground that it is not competent for the Legislature or any other body to go behind the returns as declared by the "Moderator." This in the face and eyes of the provision of the Constitution of the State, which requires that the Legislature shall examine the facts and declare who is legally elected. The Constitution also requires that the votes shall be carefully preserved and kept sealed for six months after the election, which would be an utterly useless provision if, as the Democrats claim, there is no power to go behind the returns as first declared.

Throwing out the one hundred illegal votes cast for ENGLISH in New-Haven elects JEWELL by about ninety majority. Leaving those votes as returned, and correcting the illegal vote in Enfield and Cheshire, would throw the election of Governor into the Legislature, where JEWELL would, of course, be elected. In either case, therefore, JEWELL was legally elected, and will be so declared. The Democrats will filibuster all they possibly can against this result, but having no legal or even plausible ground to stand on, they cannot effect anything. The probability is that the Legislature will adjourn to-morrow for one week, to give the Committee time to investigate the facts relative to the vote in New-Haven and the two other towns. It will not, therefore, be declared who is Governor till next week, but it will be safe to address all official communications after that time to MARSHALL JEWELL, if they are intended for the Governor of Connecticut. S.

Caucuses of Both Parties in the Legislature—Nominations—The Democrats to Oppose an Investigation into the New-Haven Blunder.

HARTFORD, May 2.—The Republican members of the Senate, to-night, nominated Hon. EZRA HALL, of Marlborough, as President pro tem. of the Senate, and EDWARD B. BENNETT, of Hartford, Clerk. The House Republican caucus nominated Hon. EDWIN H. BUGBEE, of Killingly, for Speaker, and B. A. HOUGH, of Danbury, and GEORGE H. COWELL, of Waterbury, for Clerk. The Democrats have nominated E. W. SEYMOUR, of Litchfield, for Speaker, and REUBEN B. BULDEN and Mr. DRESCOLL, of New-Haven, for Clerk. The Democratic caucus was secret; that of the Republicans was held publicly in the Representatives' Hall. It is understood that the Democrats will strongly oppose an investigation by the Committee on the Canvass of Votes of the matters in dispute concerning the count of the votes in New-Haven and Enfield, where the presiding officers have sent statements that there were undoubted errors in the counts. The Legislative Committee will have power to make a thorough investigation in order to decide who has actually received a majority of the votes cast for Governor. It is pretty certain from what has been learned of the action of the Democrats that they will oppose an investigation in every possible way when the Legislature acts upon the matter. To-morrow there will be no public parade. The Republican nominees for Legislative offices will be elected to-morrow.

THE SOUTH.

More Political Trouble in Arkansas—Damage by Rain and the Crevasses in Mississippi.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 2.—An Avalanche Little Rock special of last night says serious troubles are reported in Chicata County, the largest negro district in the State. Just prior to his recent election as Senator, Gov. CLAYTON appointed Senator J. W. MASON, (colored,) of Chicata County, Probate Judge, as it is alleged, to secure his vote for the Senatorship, but just on the heels of the session Gov. CLAYTON appointed Major RAGLAND, of Jefferson County, to that position, and under CLAYTON'S instructions, the Senate refused to take up and act on MASON'S nomination, and by that means it was expected to get rid of him. But MASON went home, and took possession of the office, and the colored men made RAGLAND leave the country. To add to this, the Governor recently appointed CONWAY BARBOUR, (colored,) lately a resident of Cincinnati, and a member of the House from Lafayette, as Assessor of Chicata County, ignoring the claims of all the colored residents in that county. This incensed the negroes still more, and when BARBOUR went down he only remained two days, a negro telling him "it would be better for his health if he made himself scarce." The negroes are reported to be on the point of outbreak, and should the Governor attempt to force these men on them there will be trouble. MASON and Representative WOOD (colored) are nowhere to see the Governor on the subject....A hail-storm yesterday and Sunday night did immense damage to the crops and fruit in Mississippi. The rich Deer Creek Valley, in Bolivar and Washington Counties, Mississippi, did not suffer from the crevasses as was feared. Deer Creek carried off the water with little damage. The work of raising the bed of the Little Rock Railroad above the overflow has been commenced.

FATAL ACCIDENTS.

Poisoned by Morphia—Killed by Falling—A Cleveland Car Accident.

BOSTON, Mass., May 2.—An inquest into the recent sudden death of Mrs. DOLLY FREEMAN, alias Ingersoll, resulted in a verdict that death was caused by the indiscreet use of morphine....WILLIAM FARRALL, a laborer, was killed in Charlestown, yesterday, while loading ice on shipboard....JOHN KELLY, a boiler-maker at the Navy-yard, was fatally injured by falling from a staging.

CLEVELAND, May 2.—An accident occurred on the Kinsman-street Railroad this morning, resulting in the death of a boy eight years old, the son of M. GILLETTE, proprietor of the Birch House, and the probable fatal injury of a driver named GRAHAM. The boy was riding on the front platform, and having arrived at his destination, the driver attempted to lift him over the inclosure surrounding the platform; just then the horses started, and the boy and man fell to the track, and were run over.

Sale of Fancy Stock and Animals.

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—At a sale of imported Jersey cattle today, heifers sold at prices ranging from $325 to $375. A three-year-old cow brought $430. The whole lot, nineteen in number, was sold. The bidding was very spirited. A Guernsey cow sold for $520; another for $500; another, bought by Mr. WINSOR, of Connecticut, at $510. Pigs and Boars from the Prince Consort's show at Windsor, England, sold for from $60 to $80. Several ponies and fancy dogs brought good prices.

MURDER WILL OUT.

The Mysterious Murder in Rockland County—Second Trial of Antoine Maurer for the Murder of Joachim Feurtes at Spring Valley.

From Our Special Correspondent.

NEW-CITY, Rockland County, N. Y., Tuesday, May 2, 1871.

The second trial of ANTOINE MAURER, indicted for the murder of JOACHIM FEURTES, commenced here today, before the Court of Over and Terminer for Rockland County. After the lapse of more than three years since the discovery of the terrible crime, and the tedious delays of the law in the former trial, the case has wholly passed from the public mind. Many of its features are, however, of unusual interest, and the various points, as first shrouded in an apparently impenetrable cloud of mystery, have one by one been linked together in a direct circumstantial chain, so strong that there would seem no possibility of doubt in favor of the prisoner. The scene of the tragedy is located at Spring Valley, a thriving and pleasant village on the Northern New-Jersey branch of the Erie Railway, thirty-three miles distant from this City, and the story is about as follows:

On Sunday evening, March 15, 1868, at dusk, while Mr. A. E. HOYES and two companions were proceeding by a short cut "across lots" to the Methodist Church, they discovered a dark object like that of a human form extended upon the ground. Closer investigation led to the discovery that it was indeed the lifeless remains of a man. The startling announcement was speedily communicated to the people assembling at the church for evening worship, a large number of whom immediately repaired to the spot—an open field, near a clump of trees, about a quarter of a mile distant from the railway depot. The body was lying upon its back, and had evidently been dragged over the furrowed ground from the roadside. An imprint across the abdomen, corresponded with the shape of a barrel stave found near the body, and led to the conclusion that the victim had been murdered elsewhere, thrown upon the stave, and partly dragged along the highway by two or more persons. The victim was evidently a German of the Hebrew faith, a small man, evidently not more than five feet in stature, and weighing about one hundred pounds. The limbs, hands, feet and features were delicately and finely molded, and with the clothing indicated neatness and taste in the habits of the wearer. His hair was dark and straight, and the person cleanly. The left leg was about one inch shorter than the other, being also considerably bent between the knee and the ankle with an outward curvature. The bones of the ankle and arch of the foot had evidently once been broken, and when reset turned the foot outward, and caused a slight limp. The right hip was larger than the left, as was also that side of the body. Upon the face lay a small, low-crowned, narrow rimmed, pearl-colored felt hat. Not a drop of blood was found upon the exterior of the body, but the inside clothing was smeared with clotted blood. The pants and coat were missing, the only garments remaining being the vest, under-jacket, shirt, drawers, socks and under-shirt. A pad, ingeniously made to fit the curvature of the left leg, partly concealed the defect, and restored the symmetrical shape. The head and face presented a most ghastly appearance, being mutilated by five ugly wounds. The right eye was entirely gone, and portions of the face had been gnawed off by field mice. The fingers of both hands were lacerated, as though wounded in a defensive struggle. About $20 was found in the vest pockets, and the letters "J. F." were marked on the under-garments.

The news of this discovery threw the town into the greatest agitation, and a vigilance committee was at once formed of the citizens to aid the authorities in unraveling the mystery. Mr. WALTER H. SHUPE, a resident, and a New-York lawyer, led this volunteer movement, and obtained a large subscription from the leading citizens, which, with some county funds, was appropriated for the purposes of a searching investigation and rewards. New-York detectives were engaged and set at work. The mutilated head was severed from the trunk and preserved in alcohol for identification. During the sessions of the inquest thousands of persons inspected the remains, but failed to identify them. At the expiration of a month the detectives ascertained the name of the murdered man to have been JOACHIM FEURTES, a native of Switzerland, and that his probable murderer was ANTOINE MAURER, a native of Alsace, Germany. The two came to America in the same ship, from Havre, in 1866. The former was a tailor, and at once obtained employment with Mr. CHARLES SCHNEIDER, in Brooklyn. MAURER was a shoemaker, and previous to emigrating here, had an unenviable reputation. He has frequently narrated, with evident glee, how, during the Winters in Paris, by feigning illness, he would gain admission into the hospitals, and thus avoid labor.

It was some time after his arrival here before he could obtain employment, and between that period and the date of his arrest he had been discharged from twelve different shops, on account of his dishonest and indecent habits. He was constantly borrowing money. FEURTES had lent him eight dollars, and frequently asked for it. On the 5th of March, MAURER, who was out of work, called on FEURTES and told him that he had a friend at Spring Valley, where he (MAURER) formerly worked, who he thought would pay the eight dollars. An arrangement was then made whereby both should meet the next day at Spring Valley. The next morning FEURTES dressed himself neatly, having even kid gloves, and in his usual cheerful manner, bid his employer and family good-by. This was the last that was seen of him up to the time of the finding of his body—five days subsequently.

The detectives first clue pointed to an individual who has been seen at Piermont and other places along the line of the Northern Railroad previous to the murder. But his description so nearly answered the appearance of the murdered man that all but one of the officers dropped the clue. But the unknown man was actually the murderer, whose resemblance to the victim is wonderfully close. His stature, limp, curved limb filled out with a pad, and gait was the same. The poorly and muscular form and repulsive and villainous countenance alone are at variance with the other points of similarity. As time went on suspicion fastened upon him so strongly that his career was rigidly investigated, from the date of his arrival to the time of the murder and arrest. It was developed that, upon the 5th of March, he lodged with a friend in Brooklyn, and in the morning told him that upon his return from the country he would bring him a present of some clothing and a gold watch and chain. On the morning of the 5th he left that house. The next afternoon he payed a cent, which was found to be clotted with blood, and was subsequently identified as the one worn by FEURTES when he left his employer's house in Brooklyn. MAURER was afterward seen in New-York on the 24 of April, and he was then lost. The hat found on the body was shown to be the identical one worn by MAURER on the day of the murder, as twenty of his companions proved this fact. About Christmas, 1869, the pants of FEURTES were found in possession of a man in New-York, who bought them of MAURER, after the murder, and FEURTES'S knife was found at another place where MAURER had exchanged it.

The hunters were all the time on his trank, watching his haunts, which were usually the lowest dens in New-York. But he eluded all their efforts until the 5th of April, just one month after the murder. On the afternoon of that day he came to the house of HENRY BRUNS, a shoemaker, at No. 2 Morris-street, for whom MAURER had at one time worked. Mr. BRUNS was absent at the time, but his wife, with womanly tact, (knowing that he was suspected,) adroitly directed his attention while she ran to Broadway, found a policeman, and caused his arrest. He was taken to Spring Valley and confronted with the murdered man's head, but denied all knowledge of his identity. At this stage of the proceedings the detectives were able to account for almost every incident of the prisoner's career up to the moment of his arrest. FEURTES'S gloves were traced to a servant girl, to whom MAURER had presented them.

At the first trial the accused was found guilty of murder. A new trial was granted, on the last being adduced that the Judge, after charging the jury, had, upon their reappearance for information, instructed them on certain points without the prisoner being present. At the October term the prisoner was again tried, found guilty, and sentenced to death. A new trial for a new trial was refused. The case, however, was taken up on a bill of exceptions to the Court of Appeals, which decided to grant another trial. The prosecution will be conducted by District-Attorney H. B. FENTON, assisted by WALTER H. SHUPE, Esq. The prisoner is defended by CORNELIUS HOFFMAN, Esq. About seventy witnesses are to be examined. The proceedings consisted of efforts to secure an impartial jury. A. ST. C.

Discharge of P. A. Leonard in Chicago—The Press on the Action of the Grand Jury—An Effort to Cover Up Some "Social Bottomness"—Sentence of a Murderer Commuted—Miscellaneous.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 2.—The action of the Grand Jury yesterday in discharging from custody P. A. LEONARD, who was in prison for killing Dr. S. R. SCANLAND, his brother-in-law, some weeks ago, has created considerable excitement in this city. The News says:

"It seems that yesterday our Cook County Grand Jury did try the case of YOUNG LEONARD, accused of the murder of Dr. SCANLAND, and acquitted him. This proceeding will strike the public as extraordinary. It may have been desirable as affecting some living persons, but as affecting the administration of justice it is simply a public scandal."

The Tribune says:

"It was generally conceded that LEONARD had a very strong case to go before a Petit Jury with, and very few of those conversant with the affair would have expressed belief in his ultimate conviction; but this summary disposal of the case will not fail to elicit definitions more or less serious upon the modes of justice and of law in Chicago."

The Republican says:

"The discretion of a Grand Jury is somewhat large, we admit, but it is not unlimited. Grand Juries are guardians of the interests, not of the proprieties of society; they have not the power to pardon or to absolve. In this case the Grand Jury have usurped the functions of a Court and Petit Jury without the power which they possess to pass off it as a disagreeable duty. The appearance is that of a thing hastily hushed up lest some unseemly social nettlesome in high places should be exhibited to the public gaze."

CLEVELAND, May 2.—The sentence of WILLIAM SCHALLENBERG, who was to have been hanged on the 12th inst. for murdering his wife, has been commuted to imprisonment for life.

BOSTON, May 2.—SOLON P. FATTEN, charged with embezzling $9,000 from his late employers, Messrs. SOYER, AMES & CO., of Boston, was arrested in Chicago and brought here for trial.... T. D. ROGERS was found dead on his wife's grave today, at Lowell. He had taken laudanum.

PITTSBURG, Penn., May 2.—LEWIS M. ROBBERS, alias "Alic," a notorious counterfeiter and reputed leader of a large gang throughout the West, together with fourteen of his party, was arrested today. They were held for trial.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 2.—An unknown man, middle-aged and well dressed, deliberately jumped into the river from the Newport ferry-boat this evening and was drowned. His body has not been recovered.....Judge EWING, of the United States Court, held, in a case tried before him today, that a distiller was not liable for tax on the full capacity of his distillery, according to the survey, when the whole amount was not actually produced.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 2.—In a difficulty to night, originating in a game of cards, —— MARRIGAN shot, and probably mortally wounded, DAVID MOLERRIE, Jr. MARRIGAN has been arrested.

Adjournment of the Ohio Legislature—Funeral of Hon. S. Tyndale—Smithson College, Indiana.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 2.—The Legislature adjourned at 12 o'clock today, after a session of 121 days. The Short-line Railroad bill was lost.

ST. LOUIS, May 2.—The funeral of Hon. SHARON TYNDALE, who was murdered at Springfield, Ill., on Saturday morning, took place at Belleville yesterday afternoon, under the direction of Freemasons, and was very large and imposing. The Masonic lodges from the neighboring towns and the various societies of Belleville, to which Mr. TYNDALE belonged, were in the procession. Ex-Gov. COLLIER delivered an address at the grave, after which the Masonic burial service was read.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., May 2.—Arrangements are making on an extensive scale for the laying of the corner-stone of the Smithson College in this place on the 9th of May, under the auspices of the Masonic Order. A general invitation is extended to all the Masonic organizations and friends of liberal education.

Postal Service in "Egypt"—An Extra Session of the Illinois Legislature to be Called.

CHICAGO, May 2.—GEORGE A. Q. MILLER, Special Agent of the Post-office Department, has just returned from a trip over that portion of Illinois lying on the Mississippi River between Quincy and Alton, which has not been inspected for nearly twenty years. The postal service was found to be in confusion and irregular. At Edwardsville he arrested a wood-chopper named BENSON, for taking advantage of his knowledge of the expected receipt of a letter by a confiding friend, and abstracting the money therefrom. BENSON is now in jail at Decatur. Mr. MILLER made the arrest of another ingenious citizen who had blunderingly forged a money order for a considerable amount. GOV. PALMER is expected to issue in a day or two his proclamation for an extra session of the Illinois Legislature.

Fire in West Forty-Third-Street.

A fire broke out about 9 o'clock last evening in the drying-room, located in the cellar of a four-story brick building, Nos. 324 and 326 West Forty-third-street, occupied by F. C. LOWRY & CO., as a stand-fire factory. The loss on stock is estimated as about $8,000; insured for $13,000. The loss on the building, which is owned by LEWIS BERRY, is about $3,000; fully covered by insurance.

Evening High School—Closing Exercises.

The closing exercises of the New-York Evening High School took place last evening in Steinway Hall, in the presence of a very large audience. BERNARD SETTER, Esq., President of the Department of Public Instruction, occupied the chair. Messrs. ISAAC BELL, WILLIAM WOOD, MAGNUS GROSS, NATHANIEL JARVIS, Jr., and WILLIAM E. DUETRA, of the Committee of the Evening High School of the Department of Public Instruction, Judge HARRISON, formerly President of the Board of Education, and others, were present.

The distribution of diplomas to the graduates was made by JAS. W. GERARD, Esq., and the closing address by Judge LIBERMORE. The dissertations and declamations were good without exception, the efforts of Messrs. MCCLAIN, MANDELBAUM and DUNNE being especially noticeable. Mr. JAS. JASPER, Jr., the Principal of the school, was warmly congratulated at the close of the exercises on the success with which they were attended.

The examination of the circumstances attending the death of Mr. AVERY D. PUTNAM was held yesterday morning by Coroner YOUNG, at the City Hall. The room was thronged with a respectably-dressed assemblage, who manifested a great deal of interest in the case. Soon after 10 o'clock Mrs. DUVAL appeared, leading her youngest daughter, about fourteen years of age. Both appeared calm, though the mother, when requested to point out the murderer, and walking around to the corner of the room where he sat to do so, evinced a perceptible tremor as FOSTER raised his head and their eyes met. The prisoner was neatly attired in black, and seemed evidently to realize the awful position in which he was placed. He displayed a good deal of nervousness, and only once or twice while Mrs. DUVAL was giving her testimony did he even raise his head, which had fallen on his breast. It was also remarked that the stolid indifference and utter callousness which had so recently characterized his behavior had all disappeared, and he sat, or rather lay, apparently inanimate in his chair, and was only disturbed at intervals by the convulsive twitchings of the muscles of his body.

THE TESTIMONY.

At 10½ o'clock the investigation commenced, Assistant District-Attorney FELLOWS appearing on behalf of the State, and Judge STEARNS for the prisoner. The first witness examined was Mrs. DUVAL, who resides at No. 720 Broadway, and who said that she saw Mr. AVERY D. PUTNAM alive the last time last Wednesday evening, when she and her daughter JEANNIE were in a Broadway car going to the Church of the Advent. They had gotten on the car at Eighth-street, near University-place, with Mr. PUTNAM, who had escorted them from their house on Broadway. They sat on the left hand side going up. Near Twenty-seventh-street Mr. PUTNAM asked her daughter if she had seen the clock in the Gilsey House. Miss JENNIE replied that she had not, when Mr. PUTNAM, pointing toward it, said that it was so high up that on a foggy day they would have to have spectacles to discern it. The young lady could not see the clock from the window, but got up and went to the front door, and stooping down peered through the glass up toward the object. At this point Mrs. DUVAL, turning to the jury, and emphasizing her remarks, said advised the immediate removal of Mr. PUTNAM to St. Luke's Hospital.

The daughter of Mrs. DUVAL, Miss MARIE VIRGINIA DUVAL was then placed upon the stand. Her testimony corroborated that of her mother, without the slightest deviation. When leaving the car, she said, Mr. PUTNAM was standing with one foot on the step and one on the street, when she saw a man running around the car, with wicked eyes and white teeth; a man with long hair, apparently artistic in his dress; and which looked like a kind of felt hat. Behind him was Mr. PUTNAM'S head, and she saw it flash in the moonlight as it came down upon him; they were directly opposite a street lamp; Mr. PUTNAM wore a low-crowned black hat; Miss DUVAL then identified both the murderer and the driver of the car.

The driver, PATRICK CUNNINGHAM, was next sworn. He said that he resided on Fifty-eighth-street, near Seventh-avenue, and was the driver of car No. 42 of the Broadway line; but did not know whether he had a regular car; on Wednesday last, between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth-streets, he saw the young lady standing up in the car near the front door; a man was with him whom name he believed was FOSTER, and whom he had never seen before the night; he thought the lady was going to get out at Twenty-fifth-street; he had rung the signal for FOSTER to let her though; he had been speaking to him; FOSTER got on at Twenty-Fourteenth and Seventeenth streets, and asked him where "Barney" was; he asserted positively that he said nothing to FOSTER about the young lady; the door of the car was opened and shut two or three times; the second time he opened it FOSTER was inside; he then closed and shut it, and FOSTER spoke about his right to open the door, saying that he was privileged, and could go in and kick a cat if he liked; FOSTER then went in and sat down, while Mr. PUTNAM was in the right-hand corner, with his back to the door; some time after FOSTER came out on the front platform, where the witness asked him if Mr. PUTNAM was in company with the ladies, and received an affirmative answer; FOSTER then asked him if he had a hook, the driver telling him he had, when FOSTER searched that he would "learn him (PUTNAM) to keep his place, and he would fix the man if he went above the depot;" the driver told him that he was not going beyond the depot; the car was stopped at Forty-sixth-street, and as the driver turned around FOSTER was on the platform, with the hook in his hand; he did not ask for it, and the driver said that he did not know he was going to take it; he did not see him take it, but when he left the car he called to him to come back, and was told to go to—; at the time, the witness saw a man running around the car, with wicked eyes and white teeth; a man with long hair, the appearance of an artist in his dress; he had a kind of felt hat; he heard him know Mr. PUTNAM'S head, and he saw it flash in the moonlight as it came down upon him; they were directly opposite a street lamp; Mr. PUTNAM wore a low-crowned black hat; Miss DUVAL then identified both the murderer and the driver of the car.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

The Paris Commune has appointed a Committee of Safety. The arrest of Gen. CLUSERET was because he was negligent in attending to the safety of Fort Issy. It is alleged that the insurgents at Neuilly are themselves throwing petroleum shells into Paris to keep up the indignation of the populace against the Versailles Government, as they are led to believe that they come from the Versailles lines. Gen. MCMAHON has sent a column of 25,000 troops against the insurgents, who are making a sortie by way of Choisy-le-Roi, and a great battle is expected. The bombardment of Forts Vanves and Montrouge is continued. An engagement had taken place near Hentes-Bruyeres, and a general action is expected. The Versaillais are daily gaining ground. Fort d' Issy is said to be entirely deserted.

A Berlin council of war has agreed to give a certain limit of time to the Communists to submit to the Versailles Government, at the expiration of which the Prussians will interfere to compel such action. The incorporation of Alsace and Lorraine was considered, yesterday, in the German Parliament, when Prince BISMARCK narrated the arguments on the measure, and claimed the annexation as a necessity. The bill was referred to a committee. A proposition has been made that the German indemnity be paid by France in quarterly installments until 1874.

The Italian Senate has discussed the question of Papal guarantees without any definite result. The Baden embassies are to be abolished. The Roumanian Army is to be reduced. Emperor NAPOLEON continues in ill health.

CENTRAL AMERICA.

The survey of the Nuppi route, for a canal between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, has been completed by Capt. SELFRIDGE. The route is said to be thirty miles long, with an elevation of 612 feet.... The Chiriqui revolution in Panama continues. The American steamer Montejo had not been recaptured, and Capt. SELFRIDGE was about to send the Resaca to recover her. President COMONFORT is raising a forced loan, and organizing the army.... Twelve robbers of the Colombia mail have been captured, and thirteen bars of gold recovered.

GENERAL.

The Schuylkill operators have fixed upon rates to be proposed to the General Council of Miners which meets in Pottsville today, as an ultimatum. The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, at their annual meeting yesterday in Philadelphia, announced that their operations for the past year show a deficit of over $208,000, which is attributed to losses from coal strikes. They have taken the resolution to hold out a year, if necessary, rather than submit to the demands of the miners, which they say will only afford a pretext for similar demands from other branches of the service.

Some of the appointments recently made by Gov. CLAYTON in Chicota County, Arkansas, have given dissatisfaction to the colored people, and the appointees were expelled from the county. An outbreak is apprehended, according to the "special" to the Memphis Avalanche.

There was a Cabinet meeting yesterday, at which every department was represented, except the War Department.

A hail-storm on Sunday and Monday did immense damage to the crops and fruit in Mississippi.

An inquest into the recent sudden death of Mrs. DOLLY FREEMAN, alias Ingersoll, in Boston, resulted in a verdict that death was caused by the indiscreet use of morphine.

Judge TWIG, of the United States Court, in Nashville, Tenn., has decided to quash the indictment in a criminal case for ejecting a colored [illegible] and his wife from a Jail car, on the ground that "common carriers" have a right to regulate their own affairs.

The Ohio Legislature adjourned at 12 o'clock yesterday, after a session of one hundred and twenty-one days.

Gen. CROOK has, by special order of the President, been assigned to the command of the Department of Arizona in the place of Gen. STONEMAN.

The semi-centennial anniversary of the Boston High School was celebrated yesterday.

Rev. Dr. HARRIS has resigned the position of President of Bowdoin College, and accepted a professorship in Yale College. Ex-Gov. CHAMBERLAIN is spoken of as President of Bowdoin College.

The remains of the late AVERRY D. PUTNAM, the victim in the Broadway car murder, were interred yesterday morning in the Swan Point Cemetery, Providence, R. I.

The Controller of the Currency has called upon the national banks to make a report of their condition at the close of business on Saturday, April 8.

The funeral of Hon. SHARON TYNDALE, who was recently murdered in Springfield, Ill., took place at Belleville, Ill., on Monday, under the direction of the Freemasons, and was very large and imposing.

Cherries were in market in San Francisco on Monday. Notwithstanding the drouth the fruit crop of California this season will be immense. The vintage is estimated at 10,000,000 gallons.

The American Medical Association is in session in San Francisco.

Mr. A. S. FOSTER, a banker of New-York, aged sixty, who had been ill in San Francisco some time, and who expected to start for the East yesterday, with his family, died suddenly yesterday morning of hemorrhage of the lungs.

GEO. RIELLY, of No. 604 Second-avenue, went home drunk on Monday night and made such a noise getting up stairs that he disturbed the landlord, JOHN C. BUNCE, who thinking he was a burglar fired three shots at him, one of which wounded him severely in the groin. Justice BIXBY held BUNCE to bail in $2,000 yesterday.

Going Back Two Hundred Years in History.

The few liberties still remaining to the people of the City and State of New-York were never in greater danger than at this moment. Should Gov. HOFFMAN sign the bill now in his hands, amending the Code of Procedure, free speech and freedom of the Press, together with many private rights of citizens, will be at an end. One of the proposed amendments repeals all the provisions of the Revised Statutes with reference to contempts, and restores the common law rules. The people have lived so long under the Revised Statutes that the common law practice with regard to contempts is forgotten, and this monstrous provision, which places the person and property of every citizen in this State at the absolute disposal of the Judges, has as yet excited but little remark. We may fairly suppose that many Democrats, even who voted in favor of this amendment, were unaware of its real meaning and effect. But the Tammany leaders who drew up the bill, and smuggled it through the Legislature at the last moment, knew precisely what it was intended to effect, and Gov. HOFFMAN knows that in the hands of unscrupulous Judges the amendment could be made the instrument of the greatest persecution. To criticise the judicial action of a Judge would subject the offender to imprisonment for years, and a total loss of his property. This is one way of reforming the Judiciary! The famous editor of the World, for asserting that the Tammany leaders had put Judges upon the Bench "to sell injustice at a price," could be thrown into prison and be deprived of his "palatial mansion,"—a measure which would make him even more obsequious to the Ring than he is now. The lips of the people would everywhere be sealed, and the Press would be completely muzzled. The most flagrant wrong, if it had judicial sanction, must be permitted to pass unquestioned. Judicial corruption, however great or notorious, could not be reproved. Was there ever such an abominable law passed in the midst of a free people before? If the community will stand this, what would it take to cause it to revolt against the audacious gang who now lord it over the City and State?

Hard experience has taught the people of the State that Judges are not always chosen for their fitness for the position, nor on account of their high character. In some Courts it is impossible to obtain justice when certain corporations, or powerful politicians, are parties to the suit. Judges have not hesitated to use their official position for the purpose of shielding criminals and aiding schemes of plunder. We could refer to many specific instances today,—although when this bill is signed, we should do so at the risk of spending a few years in prison. The only restraint now placed on judicial corruption is the fear of criticism from the Press and people. The proposed amendment will remove the last restraint, and give the Judges unlimited power of punishing anybody who dares to call in question any of their judicial acts. The President of the United States, the Governor of the State, members of Congress, and every public man can be justly criticised without let or hindrance. From this criticism the Judges of the State of New-York are to be exempted. The punishment of the "offense" is to rest with them, and their decision is to be final. Under the Revised Statutes, the extreme punishment for contempt was a fine of $250, or imprisonment in the County Jail for a period not exceeding thirty days, or both, in the discretion of the Court; but in no case could imprisonment for non-payment of the fine exceed thirty days. This punishment was sufficiently severe, and statutory contempts were not frequently committed. The publication of a false or grossly inaccurate report of the proceedings of a Court was a contempt, but the statute expressly provided that the publication of full and fair reports should not be punished. The common law rule allows the Court to decide what is a "contempt," and inflict punishment in its own discretion, without appeal. The reason for the proposed amendment is plain. It is to shield the Ring Judges from any criticism whatever. Certain Judges do not like to have public attention called to their official acts, and should the amendments to the Code receive the sanction of the Governor's signature, future criticism would not only be punished as contempt, but the criticisms made in times past would, at the first opportunity, be revenged.

Another of the proposed amendments requires all actions against railroads to be brought in the judicial district where the principal office of the Company is situated. This amendment, which is made for the sole benefit of the Erie Road, would incidentally render all railroads the masters of the public. It would be a positive bar to many suits, and deprive persons who had sustained injury or loss of the right of recovering damages, owing to the expense of prosecuting the suit. The principal office of the Erie Railroad Company is in the City of New-York, and all suits against the Company must be brought here. Leaving out of the question personal injuries, we will take, for an example of the working of this amendment, injury to property. A farmer residing on the line of the Erie Railroad, near the western terminus, let us say, has a valuable horse killed on the railroad. The Company is wholly at fault, and could the action be brought near the farmer's home, he could easily recover the full value of the horse, and sufficient costs to reimburse him for the expenses of prosecuting the suit. But the proposed amendment says the suit to recover from the Company the value of the horse shall only be brought in the First Judicial District. The farmer counts up the cost of prosecution, and the attendant risks. In Chautauqua County the suit could be brought to an immediate trial; in the City of New-York, several terms would pass before the cause would be reached, and when reached, a Judge favoring the road would allow further postponement, until the suitor, wearied out and disgusted, abandoned the action. The law's delay and uncertainty, the distance from his home, and the great expense of procuring the attendance of witnesses, would compel the farmer to put up with a loss of four or five hundred dollars. This example is but one of a thousand which might be adduced, and the case of the farmer residing on the Erie may be that of one living near the Central or any other railroad.

The legislation of the "Ring" has been heretofore almost wholly confined to the City; it is now extended to the whole State. It is in the power of Gov. HOFFMAN to fasten on the public this law, which abridges free speech, and deprives persons injured by railroads from recovering any damages. Will he inflict this additional stain on his reputation? He is a lawyer, and must thoroughly understand the scope and purpose of the proposed amendments. Moreover, he has been warned beforehand publicly and privately. It is difficult to believe that he will consent to be a party to this shameful attempt to suppress public liberties for the benefit of the oligarchy which has already wronged us so deeply. While the attention of the people was occupied with the law which placed the property of the City of New-York at the mercy of four men, and the law which rendered election frauds legal, a bill was passed much more iniquitous than either, depriving the people of the whole State of free speech, muzzling the Press, and rendering the Ring Judges more powerful than feudal Barons. We ask the attention of Democrats in other States to these proceedings of their Tammany friends. Can they afford to indorse them? Above all, can Gov. HOFFMAN afford to sign this monstrous bill?

German-Americans and Drinking Habits.

The comments of the Tribune on our proposition for a compromise between the German and American Republicans, show so much more common sense and wisdom than have heretofore characterized that journal when treating of such topics, that we begin to hope for good results from the discussion. The present position of the Tribune is at least simple, logical, and consistent. It is that "alcohol is essentially a poison," and, therefore, that its traffic should be placed under the same restraints as that of all other poisons; that, accordingly, the distinction between different kinds of alcoholic drinks is only a distinction between more and less of poison, and of no account to the true reformer; and that all sale or partaking of this poison is a wrong and a sin. Such a position is perfectly comprehensible, and, allowing its premise, capable of defense. But on the question of alcohol being a poison, the best physiological authorities are against the Tribune, and the experience of mankind shows that if it is a poison, it is a "very slow one," millions of men having reached the most advanced age, in the highest condition of mind and body, who had habitually partaken of it. In fact, the number who never take alcohol into the system is an exceedingly small fraction of mankind, and mainly to be found in New-England and the Middle States; and so far as we have heard, is in no way distinguished from the rest of humanity, either by longer lives or greater physical power or superior intellects. On the contrary, our strong impression is that, as a class, the total abstinence party of this country (for whom morally we have the highest respect) are solely distinguished from the rest of mankind, in a physical view, by a greater proneness to dyspepsia and nervousness.

Even if alcohol were proved to be in itself a poison, it might entirely lose this character when combined with the fruity elements of wine, or the large dilution of water in lager-beer. A very slight chemical change in sugar makes it a poison. It is certainly possible that a combination of other elements with alcohol may make it not only not injurious, but beneficial to the human stomach. Apart, however, from the science of the matter, we rest on the broad experience that to most persons who are overworked, or unduly strained, or otherwise weakened, the partaking of a light wine or mild fermented drink at their meals, is healthful and useful; while to the young and vigorous, though there may be no necessity for such beverages, a moderate use of light wines at a social gathering is promotive of sociality, and is not injurious. In this view, (which we cannot hope, of course, that the Tribune will share,) we think there is a vast practical difference to the reformer, the legislator and the Christian, between the social and moderate beer and wine drinking habits of the Germans, and the whisky and rum and brandy drinking of some Americans and almost all the Irish. The former has no perceptible bad effect on the general order and morality of the community; on the contrary, its promotes innocent sociality. The latter is the source of nine-tenths of the crime and pauperism of the City.

Let any investigator go to the Tombs prison, and examine the records for the month of murders, burglaries, abuse and quarrels, and he will find that ninety-nine out of the hundred are caused by brandy, gin, or whisky, while the offenses under the influence of lager or Rhine wine are trifling and comparatively innocent. Let him visit the wretched drunkards' homes in this City, where everything is sold for liquor, and wife and children are beggared and driven to the streets, and in ninety cases out of the hundred they will be among Irish and American and English drinkers of whisky and strong drinks. Now, these are facts which are known to every one. We assert that they ought to be recognized by legislation. We legal them under our old License law, and we believe, had not the reformers, like the Tribune, taken their stand position of "drinking as a sin," and "alcohol as a poison," we should have effected a compromise which would have put the Germans on the American side in this question, and checked the traffic in strong drinks, and thus immensely diminished intemperance and all its evils. But the reformers would have all or nothing. Alcohol was a poison, and lager and "gunpowder whisky" were alike curses. The results were the Democracy restored to power, an unrestrained revel in liquor on Sundays and week days, and crime and drunkenness are rampant through the City.

The compromise which the Tribune now suggests,—that the traffic in liquor should be regulated by each city and township for itself,—is not new. We have always supported it. Every Republican member of the Legislature voted for it in the recent session. Every Democrat voted against it. It is a reasonable measure. But for once we find the Tribune not sufficiently radical for us. Such a law would immensely benefit the rural districts, but would do nothing for this City. We discover that of the 42,000 prisoners in our City prisons last year, 27,000 were habitual drunkards, and of the remainder a large proportion were under the influence of liquor when committing their crimes. We also find that of the 72,000 arrests by the Police last year, 32,000 were directly for intoxication, and some 20,000 more for offenses under the influence of liquor. We also discover that of all those arrested 24,000 were Irish-born, and only 7,000 were Germans. Now, we desire to control this horrible revel of crime and drunkenness, especially among the Irish drinkers of strong drink. We think that the million of dollars which the traffickers in these drinks used to pay to the Board of Excise, ought to go toward the healing of the wounds they have made. With fifty thousand German votes drawn to our ranks, these reforms can be accomplished, and this can only be done by a reasonable compromise on our part. What shall that compromise be?

The Public and the Street-Cars.

WILLIAM FOSTER stands indicted for the wilful murder of AVERY D. PUTNAM, and we trust that no plea for delay, based upon quibbles or pretexts, will prevent him from being immediately brought to trial. Whatever may be the extent of the public excitement with reference to the case, it does not transcend the limits of a reasonable indignation, nor does it in the least degree mitigate the crime committed by the cowardly assassin. Mr. PUTNAM is only one other martyr to a long system of corporate neglect and public indifference. Our street-cars have witnessed many shameful outrages, whose record never saw the light. People put up with their wrongs rather than incur "publicity." Many other outrages have gone unpunished, because of the difficulty of finding witnesses willing to come forward and substantiate them, or because of the connivance of drivers and conductors with the guilty parties. It is not necessary to visit on the head of the man Foster the accumulated odium of the ruffianism which has escaped scot-free. But it is eminently desirable that any one who should be disposed to imitate the violence of which he stands accused, should be made to feel that the punishment he braves is swift and sure.

But even after this case has been disposed of the root of the evil will remain untouched. It is simply impossible that the street-cars should offer the immunities they do to pickpockets and rowdies, were not the servants of the companies either in collusion with these offenders, or greatly indisposed to interfere with them. In the Court of General Sessions, yesterday, Judge BEDFORD made the following statement: "There is scarcely a week elapses but the Press gives us an account of some daring outrage perpetrated in these cars, so bold in its character as to justify the inference that some of the conductors and drivers are accessories to these crimes." For this opinion we are assured that the judicial scourge of our New-York roughs had very ample warrant, and when the District-Attorney makes his promised example of some of them, we may expect to see it followed by such a sentence as the magnitude of their offense demands. But if drivers and conductors are to be held publicly responsible for the proper discharge of their duties, the Companies who place them there ought to be equally liable to prosecution. In the case which formed the occasion of Judge BEDFORD'S remarks, the complainant failed to secure the man who had picked his pocket. It came out, however, in the course of the evidence that the conductor of a Third-avenue car, though convinced that pickpockets were busy on his rear platform, "did not care to interfere." In a case like this, the obvious remedy for the injured party is to sue the companies who place such men in positions of public trust. We publish elsewhere a letter from a gentleman who has taken this course of testing the identity of the street-railroad employes for the acts of their servants. The circumstances related by Mr. GODKIN speak for themselves. Not the least significant point of his narrative is the obvious anxiety displayed by the officials to make the offending conductor bear the undivided punishment of his alleged insolence and assault.

These corporations cannot too soon learn, as our correspondent maintains, that in choosing men without reference to their character or antecedents, they are seriously endangering the amount of their dividends. Any arguments based upon the duty they owe to the public would, very probably, be wasted upon them. A direct appeal to their self-interest could hardly fail of being effective. There is no requirement more plain than that men to whose charge hundreds of defenseless women and children are daily committed, and on whom it chiefly depends whether or not a street car, after dark, should be the chosen resort of lawless men and crime, ought to be subjected to a very rigid standard of character and competency. They should possess the physical strength necessary to cope with the blackguards who infest the cars, and they should have character enough to remove them above the level of the ruffianism they have to deal with. If the companies choose to permit their servants to be selected on political grounds, or for any other reason than that of fitness for the public service, the sooner they are made to pay for their neglect the nearer will be the prospect of a much-needed reform.

The Legal-Tender Act.

The decision of December, 1869, against the validity of the Legal-Tender act, in its application to pre-existing debts, has been strengthened by the neglect of Congress to take measures for a return to specie payments. The Chief-Justice, and the Associate Justice, who acted with him in resisting a reversal of this judgment now, for the first time, carry out their views to its logical result, and insist that there is no power in Congress to apply the act to contracts made after its passage. If this had been maintained by a majority of the Court, specie payments would be suddenly resumed, and the foundation of our whole banking system destroyed. The Chief-Justice, who now looks complacently upon the Democracy, evidently intended that this should occur. In February, 1862, the act came into operation, and it has since become so much identified with the business of the country that the difficulty will be to return to the old basis. In the meantime, the Supreme Court, in exceeding its functions, has secured to the Democracy a candidate for the Presidency, in the person of Mr. Chase, who, as Secretary of the Treasury, placed Congress in the dilemma of being obliged either to pass the act to permit the prosecution of the war, or allow the rebellion to succeed.

From the origin of the Government, it has been the practice of Congress to declare what shall constitute a legal tender for debts. Prior to the institution of the mint, foreign coins of a certain value were declared to be a "legal tender for all debts and demands." After the mint had gone into operation, our own, as well as foreign coins, became a legal tender. On each successive alteration of our standard of coins, the new ones took the place of the old in this service. This is one of the very objects of money, and is a necessary duty devolved upon Congress, without the exercise of which there would be conflicting legislation in the several States. It is very desirable to conduct war on the basis of these coins, but in the event of there not being enough within the reach of the Government for its purposes, on the new theory of Mr. CHASE, the defense of the country would have to be postponed. Of course it would be very uncivil for foreign Governments, whose forces might be collected for a blow at our existence, not to wait until we could coin enough to pay the expenses of defense. Happily for the country, however, the opinion of the Chief-Justice did not prevail with the majority of his associates, who, in reversing the former judgment of the Court, not only establish the validity of the Legal-Tender act, but the great series of acts passed by Congress to put down the rebellion.

A New Cock-Lane Ghost.

There have recently been doings in Wayne County, Ohio, as marvelous as any that ever frightened COTTON MATHER, or mystified Dr. JOHNSON. In the little City of Wooster there lives a quiet and respectable family named HOFFMAN, which, for nearly two years, has been haunted and tortured by malignant spirits. The persistent demons cannot be entreated or exorcised away; and their proceedings bear a like close resemblance to those of divers familiar imps conjured up by modern spiritualists, and to those of the famous Cock-lane ghost of a century ago.

The mysterious pranks that afflict the HOFFMAN family were begun in June, 1869, while the family lived in Millersburg, Holmes County, Ohio. At that date, by way of keynote or prologue to the weird drama to come, Mr. HOFFMAN one day lost two dollars from his purse. He did not at first attribute this to any Satanic or supernatural agency, although he felt subsequently called on to do so. Prudently resolving to hide his money more carefully in future, he went his way. But, put his loose cash where he might, the cunning depredators spied it out and relieved him of it. The poor man soon found that it was absolutely impossible to keep any funds about him at all; and this was only the beginning of his woes. Articles of food and of dress began to disappear in the same unaccountable way. Crockery fell from shelves, without the aid of human hands, and was smashed to pieces. Stones, eggs, and other small, objects were tossed wildly about the house; and now and then the unseen tricksters got up a little shower of gravel and sand, which would be playfully thrown in the faces of the inmates. The family were at first very naturally surprised and annoyed; afterwards they got alarmed, and having unsuccessfully [illegible] every thing occurred to them, both to [illegible] the cause of these visitations and to put a stop to them, they resolved to quit their house. Mr. HOFFMAN took another house for his wife and three children—the latter being aged respectively, seventeen, and fifteen respectively—in the town of Wooster, at some distance from their former abode; while, with the discretion that appears to characterize him, he took up his own temporary quarters at a mill where he was employed. The family now hoped to remain unmolested; but they soon found to their chagrin how trivial were the inconveniences of space as healthy to their unholy associates. The persecutions followed, changed rather in character; but the spirits were just [illegible]

That lady and her offspring being domiciled at the house of one SMOOKE in West Liberty-street, Wooster, now became the victims of an extraordinary series of petticoat visitations. The clothes of the mother and eldest daughter were first abstracted and then returned in fragments, having been cut and slashed to pieces. Sometimes the garments would be stuffed in out-of-the-way places. One day, for example, most of the linen of the family was discovered carefully packed in the mouth of the cellar drain. Another time a silk dress was found under a wood-pile; and skirts were dug up that had been deliberately buried in earth or sand. A fresh feature was now added to the entertainment, in the shape of notes that arrived, none knew from whence, although they sometimes appeared to be thrown from the cellar. These missives contained various threats and admonitions. One of the number advised Mrs. HOFFMAN, in a friendly way, that if she would come down the cellar stairs backward on her knees, at a specified day and hour, she would find a box containing $2,000. The worthy lady was anxious to clutch the glittering prize, but "being afraid of bodily injury was dissuaded by neighbors from making the hazardous attempt." It occurred to her, not unreasonably, that the task might be more wisely undertaken by her husband; and she therefore repaired to that cautious person at his mill, and induced him to go with her to Wooster. The spirits, however, at this juncture, promptly transmitted another note to the effect that no one could possibly get the money but herself; and we are not surprised to hear by the latest accounts that it has not yet been secured.

By way of amends for this disappointment the concealed powers have begun a new and lively round of diversions. Poundings are heard on the walls at night, stones from the size of pebbles to that of a man's fist are pitched through the doors and windows, dishes rattle, fire-irons tumble down, and "a general rumpus is created, as if imps were holding high revelry." A bold young man, a visitor, having said something disrespectful of the unseen agencies, a red-hot stone was dropped on his head; and, on taking out his pocket handkerchief, he found it was cut into shreds. All sorts of mystifications are practiced. Mr. HOFFMAN, for instance, answered one of the "spirit notes," and put his reply in the cellar; but, just as he got upstairs into the room above, "his own note dropped on the floor by his side—all his family being present." The family are now quite impoverished by the thefts and other ravages of their demoniac tormentors. Mrs. HOFFMAN and her daughters have no clothes save those worn by them daily on their backs; while the husband and father has only a single worn old working suit left to him. Nearly all the domestic utensils, such as plates, cups and saucers, and even the table cutlery, have been either broken or carried away. Of course the obvious suggestion is that all this mischief has really been wrought by cunning mortals, and not by spirits at all, and that, as with the artful WILLIAM PARSONS and his family in 1761, discovery, if long averted, must be certain at last. The local Press declares that most careful watch has been kept, and that hundreds of men and women have visited and inspected the premises without being able to suggest any clue to the mystery. Several clergymen and physicians have investigated it, and a circle of professed Spiritualists have likewise essayed to do so. As yet no light whatever has been thrown on the matter, and, so far as the postponement of detection goes, this Ohio ghost must certainly be allowed to surpass in cunning his predecessor of Cock Lane, who so marvelously perplexed the wise heads of last century.

MINOR TOPICS.

In the face of such a despotism as the Tammany Ring are now inflicting on the City, it is the duty of Republicans everywhere to strive to break down the power which threatens to attack the liberty and property of every citizen. This duty seems clear, and we believe that in the rural districts Republicans are fully alive to it. But in this City there are many who find it worth their while to take the pay of Tammany, and perform its work, while avowedly belonging to the Republican Party. Of such men, or their sympathizers and friends, is the General Committee of this City chiefly composed. They have published a long address in the Tribune, protesting against the reorganization proposed by the State Committee—as men are apt to object to the reform of abuses in which they are interested. This address will not deceive any intelligent observer of events. The simple question is, Can a man be a good Republican, and at the same time be in the service of the reckless gang which now rule the City? Is it right for Republicans to be assisting the Tammany leaders? In a plain answer to these questions will consist the proper verdict on many members of the General Committee, and the influential Republicans who back them up.

Some time ago we called attention to the fact, as we had often done before, that the City authorities had suppressed all their reports of local affairs, and we urged that this was in itself an evidence of fraud. It is what that party hack, the World, calls one of the "inextinguishable principles of Democracy," to conceal the accounts of receipts and expenditure, and allow the City Controller to "doctor" the books at his leisure. We were, however, solemnly rebuked by the Revolting Scoffer shortly afterwards for the publication of the City accounts, and the, writing the following statement: "Mayor HALL, the moment ordered all the accounts of the Department to be rendered to him on the 5th of April, when the new charter will have been in force a year. We have now reached the 5th of May, and yet the reports have not been issued. The public may hope from this one example how much dependence is to be placed upon any promises which come to us from the Sunday Press, prompted by the Tammany Ring."

"Judas Iscariot was an apostle so long as the cause involved no pecuniary loss, and so could him the honors of a [illegible] with contributions of the faithful." [illegible] New-York World of Monday last, [illegible] of an article devoted to [illegible] thieves and thieves. That the public may [illegible] the World's [illegible] Ring [illegible] hardly be said, [illegible] violent [illegible] Tammany leaders. These facts have not improved in any way since, despite World [illegible] "fixed." Finding the Tammany hog still [illegible] "plethoric with contribution" and far less [illegible] to exhaustion than that of the Young Democracy, the World assumed the library of the "scoundrels" and "thieves," and now implores these worthies with praise that is as ridiculous as it is venal. It is hardly worth while inquiring whether the part our present employers [illegible] the World must.

In today's advices relating to affairs in and around Paris, the most significant fact is that the German leaders have announced their intention to interfere, after the expiration of an assigned limit, and compel the submission of the Communists to the Versailles Government. Such an intervention finds ample warrant in the slow progress of the subjugation of the Commune, and in the delay which its continued exercise of power interposes in the settlement of the overdue payments to Germany. The novelty is, however, of a character most humiliating to France. It is showing that she has suffered a loss more irreparable than that of her eastern provinces—the loss of ability to regulate her own affairs. It is from just such administrative impotence that the teeming millions of Hindostan have come to be subjects of England. France has sunk lower than a second-rate Power. She seems, in this dark hour, about to reach the level of effete Oriental despotisms, and looks to the enemy whom she hoped to have her friend. If anything were wanted to add vigor to the operations of the Government troops, it is the prospect of having Germany for an ally in reducing Paris.

At Brussels, the peace Plenipotentiaries are nearly at a dead-lock, owing to the effect of existing troubles on the financial capabilities of France. The German Envoys insist upon quarterly cash payments of the one thousand millions of dollars due by France, extending over a period of about three years. The French Envoys propose to give one-fifth in cash, and the remainder in national promises to pay. The Germans are disposed to fall back upon the territorial guarantee still held by their armies, and for years to come we may possibly see German Prefects raised, for the benefit of their Government, the revenues of large sections of France. Some deeper degradation may await the unhappy country which, a year ago, was the most confident in its own powers of any in Europe; but it is difficult to imagine what it can be.

We trust that the course taken by the Ice companies last Summer has not slipped out of the public recollection. On the theory assumed that the supply was short, the price was raised in the midst of the hot season. This notion was cruel, and caused an immense amount of suffering among poor people. As the season when ice is a positive necessity, it was placed beyond the reach of thousands of families. This season, if the people act for their own interest, ice will be cheap enough. Yielding to the public demand, a number of gentlemen formed the Consumers' Ice Company, and during the Winter laid in a large stock, and are now ready to supply customers at reasonable rates. This Company should receive from the people a hearty support, for it is only by sustaining it that the experience of last season can be prevented. The old companies will doubtless pursue the usual tactics for driving their rival from the field. If the people deal with them they will suffer in the end, for when there is no longer danger of competition, prices will be placed at the dearest object Summer, and perhaps even at a higher rate. The people have now the power to prevent high prices by sustaining the Consumers' Company. We give the new Company the benefit of this notice, in order that the public may be protected against the imposition which they were powerless to resist last Summer.

Should the preliminary report of Commodore SELFRIDGE'S expedition be borne out by fuller details, the problem of a canal across Darien may be considered as all but solved. With a length of thirty miles and an extreme height of six feet, the construction of the canal does not appear to present any difficulties of execution which cannot be readily overcome. The unwearied patience and confidence that the explorers of this and preceding expeditions have maintained in the face of multiplied discouragements, are worthy of the highest commendation. It is to be hoped that the same energy will be displayed in giving practical effect to the results of the exploration as has been manifested in obtaining them.

THE KUKLUX IN FLORIDA.

The Latest Victim—Five Republicans Murdered in Three Months.

From the Trenton (N. J.) Gazette, May 2.

Gen. RUSLING handed us yesterday the following letter, just received from his former chief clerk at the Pension Agency here, which speaks for itself. Mr. JAY has been in Florida only about three months, but he already reports five murders by the Kuklux—all Republicans. Ere this he will learn that Congress has already acted, and we trust the Kuklux bill will be rigidly enforced, at all hazards and at whatever cost. Our readers will remember that in a letter which we published from Mr. JAY, written a short time after his arrival among the Floridians, he expressed considerable skepticism as to the existence of Kuklux, and gave it as his opinion, founded upon his experience and observation, that a Northern man who went South and attended to his own business and conducted himself like a gentleman, would always be well treated. The radical change of sentiment which a longer stay, and a more intimate knowledge of Southern society has produced, is very significant:

TALLAHASSEE, FLA., April 26, 1871.

MY DEAR GENERAL: Another colored man had just been killed. Hon. JOHN F. MAHONEY was shot and killed at Lake City this morning. He was a young, ardent Republican, a member of the Legislature from Columbia County. He was my personal friend, possessing many noble qualities. Congress must pass a strong Kuklux bill, or we have no safety for Republicanism in this State means death. This makes the fifth murder since I came here, all Republicans.

Very truly yours, HAMILTON JAY

Gen. JAMES F. RUSLING, Trenton, N. J.

The Slavery Question Before the High Commission.

Anxiety of Correspondents to Secure the Text of the Treaty.

Another Kuklux Proclamation—Probable Haytian Diplomacy—The District Schools—Unreasonable Criticisms of the Sultan's Carpet.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—It was noted in these dispatches a short time since that the consideration of the treaty with Great Britain in the Senate was likely to be treated as a national and not a party question, and there is no doubt that it will be by all but one or two of the Republicans. But still there is an attempt by a portion of the Press to prejudice the people against its ratification in advance, by malicious and untruthful statements concerning its terms; and on this account and no other do such statements become worthy of contradiction. It would be impossible for any person of common intelligence to write a column in a newspaper of pretensions of the terms of the treaty without hitting some point correctly. This, it may be positively stated, is all the claim that a long dispatch in one or your contemporaries of this morning has to reliability. But besides its look of correct information, some of its statements, which ought not to be expected, are extremely absurd. For instance, take its claim that slaves of British subjects at the South were liable to be paid for by our Government. Now it took France and England it is unlawful to own slaves, and the right of property in them by subjects, at home or abroad, has never been recognized or protected; and yet it is gravely announced that the treaty has been changed to prevent Great Britain pressing claims for the value of property held in violation of its own laws. Gen. BUTLER had some experience with French subjects at New-Orleans. Though claims for slaves were set up by them, they were not pressed in the face of the violation of French laws. Gen. BUTLER will have called the attention of some members of the Commission to his experience in New-Orleans, but it is in the extent of the consideration of that subject. As the TIMES announced some time ago, the treaty will provide for the payment of just claims of English subjects growing out of the war, but there is no evidence that such claims will offset the full amount of the Alabama claims, and probably not one-tenth of them. In they more or less, if just, who will object to paying them? In general in addition to what has already been truthfully noted of the treaty in these dispatches, it may be stated that it is only partially drafted, and that it will not be fully engrossed ready for signature till next week, though an agreement on all questions now seen will probably be reached this week. Two copies have to be engrossed for signature—one for this country, and one for England. It will be a very long treaty, covering, according to such judgment as can be formed in its present state, about twenty-five pages of the public document size. There are the most strenuous efforts making to secure the text, or a correct synopsis of it in advance of its transmission to the Senate, for publication, but the Commissioners seem to have no anxiety on that score. The attaches of foreign Legations are interviewed and the friends of the Commissioners are importuned, in the hope of obtaining some slight information. In one instance at least, some enterprising interviewers paid a visit to the ladies of a gentleman's family when he was known to be absent, in the expectation that great state secrets had been confided to them which they would reveal. The fact that such extraordinary exertions to learn anything of the treaty are undertaken at all, is warning that little credit is to be placed in pretended revelations preceded and followed by large quantities of fulsome self-praise. Such efforts will not produce their designed effect, and the Senate will consider the treaty on its merits, and decide whether honorable peace is possible with Great Britain. If it is possible the treaty will be ratified.

EXECUTING THE KUKLUX ACT.

The first step toward the execution of the Kuklux law will probably be the issue of a proclamation by the President, which may be expected in a very short time, calling attention to the provisions of the law, and the purpose to enforce it promptly and thoroughly whenever it may be violated. There is considerable evidence of the good moral effect of the law in suppressing disorders at the South already exerted, and it would occasion much rejoicing if it should be such an influence that its actual execution should not be required.

HAYTIAN OPPOSITION TO ANNEXATION.

Mr. PRESTON, the Haytian Minister, has had the San Domingo Commissioners' report translated into French for distribution, where he thinks it will serve any purpose in his fight against the annexation of Dominica. This is not the only one of his translations into French for a similar use. There was some time ago a pamphlet of documents diplomatiques, &c., of upward of fifty pages, composed of newspaper and other articles suited to his purpose, which was very privately printed and circulated among friends, Mr. SUMNER of course being remembered.

CORPORAL PUNISHMENT IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

A few weeks ago the Board of Aldermen of this city passed a bill abolishing corporal punishment in the public schools, and many exceptions have been made to have the Common Council concur. Last night, however, that body postponed the consideration of the bill five weeks, which has the effect to prevents its becoming law, since the new Government is inaugurated before that time. The teachers of this district will, therefore, for the present continue to stand toward the pupils in loco parentis, and use the rod when they think it needful.

THE NEW CARPET.

Mrs. GRANT's reception today was well attended, and the new carpet presented by the Sultan was an object of much curious inspection. It turns out not to be woven in a single piece, but in strips about a foot wide, sewed together, and an American carpet of a small fraction of its cost would be generally preferred, judging from the expressions heard concerning it.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

CONNECTICUT WAR EXPENSES.

A warrant was issued from the Treasury Department today in favor of the State of Connecticut for $133,196 66, to reimburse that State for money expended in equipping and forwarding volunteers to suppress the rebellion.

THE GOLD CASE DECISION.

The decision of the Supreme Court, yesterday, affirming the validity of contracts for payment of specific weights of gold in coined money, was based upon a case appealed from the Superior Court of Michigan, which presented an instance of singular precision and caution. The action in the Court below was brought to recover rent upon a lease executed in 1828 for the term of one hundred years, in which the yearly rent reserved was four ounces, two pennyweights and twelve grains of pure gold in coined money, payable quarterly. The State Court, instead of giving judgement for the rent and interest in coined money, gave judgment for the market value in United States notes of the coined money, but the Supreme Court reversed this judgment, and held that payment must be made in coined gold money.

THE NATIONAL CENTENNIAL.

The President has appointed the following as Commissioners, under the fourth section of the act of 3d of March, to provide for celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of American Independence, in the City of Philadelphia: Asa Packer and Daniel J. Morrell, of Pennsylvania; D. M. Boyd, Jr., and John L. Campbell, of Indiana; Salomon H. Spink and H. R. Bateholder, of Dakota; J. T. Bernard and J. S. Adams, of Florida; E. D. Holton and Daniel Atwood, of Wisconsin. The act provides for the appointment of two gentlemen from each State and Territory, to be made upon the recommendation of the Governor thereof to the President. The above comprises all the nominations that have been received by the President up to the present time.

THE LOAN.

The subscriptions to the new loan today were $75,000.

NATIONAL BANK REPORTS.

The Controller of the Currency has called upon the National Banks to make a report of their condition at the close of business on Saturday, April 29.

THE CABINET.

There was a Cabinet meeting today for the first time in several weeks. Every Department was represented, excepting the War Department. It is understood that routine business only was transacted.

A TELEGRAPH MEMORIAL.

The National Telegraph Memorial Association is now fully organized. Subscription books have been opened, and the prospects of success are encouraging. The design is to commemorate the introduction and application of the magnetic telegraph as a triumph of American genius and invention. The principal feature of the monument to be located at Washington is a colossal statue of Professor MORSE, by HORATIO STONE.

THE "WORLD" ON THE TAMMANY GANG.

The following comments on TWEED and his friends appeared in the New-York World of a year ago. They were probably written by the same hand who is now engaged in the congenial task of cleaning the boots of the Tammany faction:

1.—"Boss" Tweed.

HOW HE MAKES HIS MONEY.

Senator TWEED's treachery to the City, by increasing whose taxes he has become "one of its heaviest tax-payers," inspired a resentment which every honest Democrat in New-York will share with their faithless representatives in the Senate and Assembly. Here we are, plundered by him and such as him in all open and public, in all private and dishonest ways. He thrives on percentages of pilfering, grows rich on the distributed dividends of rascality. His extortions are so boundless in their sum as in their immunity. Streets unopened profit him—streets opened put money in his purse. Paving an avenue with positive enriches him—taking of the positive increases his wealth. His rapacity, like the trunk of an elephant, with equal skill twists a fortune out of the Broadway widening, and picks up dishonest pennies in the Bowery. And the system which shields, fosters, and prolongs him and his rapacious tribe, he refuses to reform altogether, or consents to reform in part only long enough to betray those who believed his word.—World, March 28, 1870.

HIS SABBATH RESTITUTIONS.

The decencies of the Ring are of a piece with its morals. Mr. TWEED passes his Sundays drinking punch in a stable. But that simply means that he is much more innocuous than his usual course of life, that perhaps we ought to congratulate him on his improvement, and commend him permanently to transfer his powers of absorption from charters to champagne.—April 4.

HIS WOODENEST PUNCH-BOWL.

Mr. TWEED has a punch-bowl, valuable, curiously wrought, and given him by his friends in California. But it is not so curiously wrought as the Ring under his finger, and not nearly so valuable as the presents unconstitutionally made him by the tax-payers of New-York.—April 4.

SEEKING ON "PALATIAL STABLES."

Mr. TWEED was worth less than nothing when he took to the trade of politics for he was a bankrupt. Now he has great possessions, estimated all the way from $5,000,000 to twice as much. We are sorry not to be able to give his own estimate, but, unlucky, he returns no income. But at least he is rich enough to own a gorgeous house in town and a sumptuous seat in the country, a third of horses, and a set of palatial stables.—March 31.

TWEED AND SWEENY ARE SWINDLERS.

The results of Messrs. SWEENY and TWEED's administration has clearly been to decrease the public revenues by the amount of their own gains, minus the legitimate incomes at their emoluments, but plus the much greater sums they have parted with to their accomplices of the Radical Legislative Ring to secure a continuance of their power. Stated is to say, they have, in a more or less circuitous manner, swindled the public to that extent.—March 31.

NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS.

Certainly there is no other city in the world where the pecuniary rewards of public service are so numerous and so rich as here under the sway of universal suffrage. Take TWEED. When that great man first offered himself for the suffrages of his fellow-citizens he was deep in debt. Notwithstanding this drawback, and the further fact that the direct income of the places which he filled was barely sufficient for a comfortable maintenance, Mr. TWEED relied upon the generosity and right feeling of his fellow-citizens to make good to him the losses which he sustained by devoting himself to their service instead of his private emoluments. He succeeded to count the cost when the commonwealth demanded his devotion. The event has proved that he has not trusted in vain.

HIS NATIVE MODESTY.

Mr. TWEED's native modesty shrinks from blazoning abroad the exact extent of his present wealth, or the exact means by which it was acquired. His sensitive soul revolts even at the partial publicity of the income list. We are passed upon the boundless ocean of conjecture. But we do know from his own reluctant lips that this public servant, who entered the public service a bankrupt, has become, by an entire abandonment of himself to the public good, "one of the largest tax-payers in New-York." His influence is coextensive with his cash. The docile Legislature sits at his feet, as Saul at the feet of Gamaliel, and waits, in reverent inactivity, for his signal before proceeding to action.

"Turned by his nod the stream of honor down;
His smile alone security bestows."

THE "MARLBOROUGH" OF AMERICA.

Are we to ignore so shining an example of the gratitude of republics? Does not Mr. TWEED's palace in town, Mr. TWEED's villa in the country, Mr. TWEED's sumptuous stables, and Mr. TWEED's numerous stud as plainly show forth the gratitude of New-York to his TWEED as does Blenheim the gratitude of England to MARLBOROUGH, or Strathfieldsaye to WELLINGTON!

2.—Mayor Hall.

"That shameless corruptionist of the Ring." "A creature and tool of the Ring." The Tweed charter confers on CARTER HALL a servile tool of TWEED's, the power to "fix things" so that the people will have no influence in the City Government either by electing HALL's successor, or the Mayor who is to follow that successor. Mayor HALL is the creature, ally and tool of the corrupt Ring. Whatever power is placed in his hands will be wielded by his creatures, or in servile obedience to their dictation.—April 5, 1870.

3.—Mr. Sweeny.

HIS "PICKINGS" WHILE CITY CHAMBERLAIN.

From the World, March 15, 1870.

Mr. SWEENY took out of the State Treasury

| | |
|---|---|
| For 1868 | $46,718 91 |
| For 1869 | 36,318 20 |
| Total | $83,036 20 |
| Average | 41,522 60 |

The sum then stands thus:

| | |
|---|---|
| As City Chamberlain | $10,000 00 |
| As County Treasurer | 10,000 00 |
| As ex-officio Commissioner of the Sinking Fund | 1,500 00 |
| From the State Treasury | 41,522 60 |
| Total | $63,022 60 |

That is the annual rate of compensation for an office of nominal functions, besides profits from interest on deposits.

$41,522 A YEAR FOR DRAWING A CHECK—FIVE MINUTES' WORK.

As to the $41,522 a year deducted in paying over the State taxes collected in this City, we inquire, Is that a local squabble? The State never paid over $2,000 for these pretended services until Mr. SWEENY's time. The $41,522 comes from the State Treasury. The service performed is drawing a check on a bank in this City in favor of the Controller of the State for the State taxes collected by the City. He is an officer who already receives $21,000 in salaries, and probably from $50,000 to $100,000 in other emoluments. Can the State afford this?

It pays Gov. HOFFMAN, for a year's service, $4,000; Controller ALLEN, $2,500; Secretary WELSON, $2,500; Attorney-General CHAMPLAIN, $2,500; Treasurer BRIGGS, $1,500—a total of $13,500. Pays B. SWEENY, for five minutes, $41,522.

The State pays the Judges of the Court of Appeals, for a year, $14,000. Pays B. SWEENY, for five minutes, $41,522.

The State pays for thirty-three Judges of the Supreme Court $191,136. It pays PETER B. SWEENY $41,522; the City and county pays $21,000; and emoluments, say, $50,000—a total of $122,136.

The State, in 1869, gave to sixty-four Orphan Asylums, distributed over the State, $61,763. The State and City gave in salaries to PETER B. SWEENY $63,022, besides an equal amount of emoluments. [Mr. SWEENY's brother-in-law now enjoys this comfortable sinecure.]

4.—Nathaniel Sands.

The fact that the so-called Citizens' Association has indorsed TWEED's charter has exactly as much significance as TWEED and SWEENY's appointment of NATHANIEL SANDS to be Tax Commissioner, at a salary of $10,000 per annum. Mr. Sands is a gentleman of respectability and ability, and it is due to all there is of him to say that the Citizens' Association by select it for his office from the Ring, and now the Ring make use of him and the Citizens' Association to keep themselves in power—as Tweed's charter, unamended, would wholly tend to do.—April 8, 1870.

WHAT DEMOCRATS THINK OF THE TAMMANY RING.

From the World, 24th February, 1870.

Let an Illinois Democrat show one of the widening ripples from the corruption which centres here. New-York is a City set on a hill. Neither the light nor its darkness can be hid. If its light be darkness, that is defeat to the Democracy of the Union; if its light be light indeed, that is life and vigor to the Democracy of the Union.

"To the Editor of the World:

"To show you how the shameful character of your City Government and some of your Courts affects the Democratic Party all through the country, you have only to read the speech at Springfield last Fall, of our Governor, Gen. PALMER. He admitted the gross corruptions of the Republicans in this State; he was wholly unable to defend them; but he answered our complaint of them by pointing to the City of New-York.

"'Look,' said he, 'at the Democratic City of New-York, where all that is necessary for the Democratic machine to do is to create a sufficient fund for the spoils which they require, and it is always honored. Take that, and there is not such a misgoverned, benighted and wronged community on earth. There they do not pretend to govern by right, but they do govern by bayonets, by force against that description of thieves and robbers.' Whether this is exaggerated or not, you can see what we Democrats of the West have to meet.

A WESTERN DEMOCRAT."

Against such arguments, how shall we effectually contend? I answer, by good deeds, by good words to make a majority. How shall the Democracy persuade such men, hitherto their opponents, but now agreeing with them upon every issue of the future, to join in the company of the party of the thieves of the Ring? We may point to the undeniable corruptions of Washington; their old leaders point them, as General, now Governor, JOHN M. PALMER, of Illinois, successfully pointed them—to the concentrated corruptions of the New-York City Ring.

What answer? The answer of honest Democrats—this corrupt Ring must be destroyed. The answer of partisan Democrats—this fatal Ring must be destroyed.

THE MANAGEMENT OF OUR STREET CARS.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Allow me to relate an experience of my own on the Broadway Railroad, two years ago. As the matter is before the Courts, and will probably be tried next month, I shall offer no comment on it, but confine myself to a simple statement of the facts. I took an up-going car on a very rainy evening, and stood on the rear platform, which was full. I got down just below Twenty-third-street, to let a lady pass out more comfortably. The conductor saw me do so, but almost without waiting for her to step down, and without giving me time to get on, pulled the bell and started the car, which was apparently behind time, and going rapidly, leaving me to run after it about a rod, in the deep mud. I clambered up and said nothing. Another lady shortly afterward came out, and I being still outside, got down to let her pass also. The same thing occurred again, but this time he got a better start of me, and my run was longer. On getting on the platform again, I began to remonstrate with him on his behavior, but in a very mild way. He ostentatiously turned his back on me, and entered into conversation with another passenger. I repeated what I had said, and added that I should complain of him to the President of the road on arriving at the terminus. He then turned fiercely round on me, and said "I want your fare." I replied that I would pay my fare on seeing his badge, as I wished to complain of him, and wanted to have his number. He had no badge on, and refused to show any; said his wearing or not wearing a badge was none of my business. We continued the discussion for a few seconds, I holding the money in my hand, when he suddenly, and without the slightest warning, put his hand to my shoulder and flung me headlong off the platform, the car going fully seven miles an hour. I fell full length on my back, my head, luckily, apparently through the strength of my hat, escaping the pavement, and sustained, most wonderfully, no injury beyond a severe shaking, the crushing of my hat, and a thick coating of mud. When I rose the car was several blocks away, and going hard.

I followed it to the terminus by the next car. Saw my man there among the conductors, but it was after dark, and he dashed off into the stables, and the bystanders denied all knowledge of him. I went up to the President's room and told my story, and he sent down for the conductor, but by this time he had started on the down trip. I went home to change my clothes, and came back again at the hour at which I was told he would be again due, but found he had arrived and had been dismissed. No one could or would tell me where he lived, or anything about him. I went the next morning early to the District Police Court, and got a warrant, and saw the officer who was to execute it. He said he knew the man well, but that he would probably now "keep out of the way" for a few days, but that he would surely catch him before long. I waited a fortnight, and made repeated inquiries about the matter, and was still told he was "keeping out of the way." Having occasion to leave the City for two or three days, I ventured to do so, and went to Boston. The day after my departure the man was arrested, and on the following morning he was discharged for want of a prosecutor.

On my return home I was waited upon at my house by a delegation composed of the Councilman of the Ward, a liquor-dealer and a brewer, to ask me to write a letter to the President of the road, forgiving the conductor, in which case, I was told, he would be restored to his place. I refused to do so, although I was assured somewhat significantly, I thought, that it might be better for me if I did. I have heard nothing more of the conductor, but I have sued the Company for two reasons: one is, that in my belief, in spite of the responsible position these conductors of street-cars fill, and the extent to which women, children, infirm and aged persons are dependent on their patience, good-temper and civility for comfort and safety, no attention whatever is paid by the corporations to their character or demeanor or antecedents in choosing them. They are kept from stealing too much by an elaborate system of espionage, but provided their accounts are satisfactory and they do not render the Company liable in damages, their behavior gives the officials of the road no concern. Many of them, like my assailant, are in appearance and temper and habits common bruisers, whom it is a disgrace to our civilization to see in charge of public conveyances. The other reason is, that the extent to which it is in the power of City politicians to annoy the companies, has introduced, or rather established, the practice of appointing conductors on their recommendation, with what results it is not necessary to point out to your readers.

I may add that though the outrage on me was witnessed by a dozen people, no remonstrance or interference was, so far as I could learn, offered. In reply to my advertisement for witnesses, one gentleman kindly sent me his name, but only one. I am, Sir, your obedient servant, EDWIN L. GODKIN.

Ultimatum From the Schuylkill Operators to the Miners.

Delegates to the General Council of Miners Gathering at Pottsville.

Their Anxiety for Resumption in the Southern Counties—Progress of Resumption in Various Regions—A New Route to Evade High Tolls.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

POTTSVILLE, Penn., May 2.—The final ultimatum of the Schuylkill operators has been defined as follows: $10 for outside laborers, $11 for inside laborers, $12 for miners, with 10 per cent. reduction from the $6 basis, on contract prices. This proposition will be brought before the General Council to-morrow for ratification. But few of the delegates to the General Council are here; the absent mail are expected on an early train in the morning. The delegates now here are totally ignorant as to the reason why President KEALY called the Council together. Notwithstanding this fact, they are extremely anxious that the lower counties should at once resume work, and will put forth every effort to obtain that end. MILLER, GRAHAM & Co.'s mines in the Swatara region, resumed work this morning with an abundance of help. To obviate paying the increased toll they propose to ship their coal by the canal, the rates of toll and transportation being $4 to Philadelphia, and $4 20 to New-York. Quiet prevails here.

Much interest is manifested in the meeting of the General Council of the W. B. A. to be held here to-morrow. Delegates from the western counties arrived here this evening, and the morning trains will bring others from the surrounding country. It is reported that many delegates are in favor of resuming work at once on the terms offered by the Committee of Operators at their meeting of April 22 ult., held at Philadelphia. The reported suspension thus morning at the Keystone Colliery, which resumed work on May 1, is incorrect, the men remaining in the mines today, and no suspension for the present is anticipated.

Miners Threatened in Hyde Park—They are Compelled to Flee to the Woods—Work Steadily Resumed Despite the Miners—Furnaces of the Lackawanna Company in Blast.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

SCRANTON, Penn., May 2.—Two miners of Hyde Park, who have been employed by HILL & FELLOWS, have been made the subjects of the most violent threats and intimations, which circumstance has led them to call upon the local authorities for assistance.

They have been compelled to leave their homes at night and seek shelter in the woods, and their families have been threatened with violence. Acting upon the advice of friends they have provided themselves with arms for self protection. Operations were resumed at Tryon Slope today, the same miners and laborers being employed who were so cruelly beaten by the mob on the 7th inst. Upward of sixty cars of coal were taken out today, and as soon as the chambers, now unfitted for use by water, can be pumped out, double this amount will be mined daily. Mr. TAYS has fully resolved upon controlling his own work, and he will, therefore, continue to mine coal, and in case of interference will call upon the State authorities for protection. Messrs. MORRIS & WEBB continue to work their mine to its fullest capacity. A guard of soldiers are on duty night and day to protect the property of the firm and the persons of their employés.

The works of Messrs. GRAHAM & Co. in the Swatara region, eighteen miles from Pottsville, resumed today. The rolling mills of the Lackawanna and Iron Coal Company are in complete operation. Sixteen furnaces are in full blast, and on Monday next the fires will be kindled in twenty-seven others.

The laborers are reported as taking advantage of the present strike to better their condition, and many of whom are good miners, have, by a committee appointed for that purpose, made a proposition to the companies offering to furnish men enough in two or three weeks to enable the 8000 large companies to resume operations. The miners have not yet heard of this move, and when they do there will be a scattering in the camp of the W. B. A. The differences existing between Mr. CHAS. PARRIS and the miners regarding the rate to be paid for mining at the Hartford mines, Ashley, was amicably arranged this afternoon, and consequently all the miners of the W. B. Coal and Iron Company, it is announced, will resume work on Thursday. The settlement was effected by Mr. PARRISH and the miners, each conceding a moity. A private dispatch says the announcement of this decision has had a wonderfully exhilarating effect upon the whole business community, and the town seems as if a heavy weight had been removed from it, as if an event was about to take place which will produce a new and more prosperous order of things. A bell foundry at the Nottingham Mines, Bloomsburg & Co., Plymouth, caused their stoppage today. It was in relation to a blacksmith, who, it is said, had been discharged and whom the miners insisted should be taken back.

Attitude of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company—A Week's Suspension Preferable to Submission.

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company held their annual meeting today. The report of operations for the past year show a deficit of over $[illegible], which is attributed to losses from coal strikes. The report says:

"The position assumed in this contest was not determined upon by the managers until after full deliberation, and it had been ascertained that if the demands of the men were yielded to it would be followed by demands from other branches of the service and seriously embarrass the future operations of the company. Notwithstanding the present cost of a serious loss from a long suspension, it was the thought better to suspend operations for the year, if necessary, than to fasten a policy upon the Company which would subject its property to the demands of others, and result in the employment of its whole capital solely for the benefit of hostile organizations."

The Wilkesbarre Miners Asked to Participate in Resistance.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., May 2.—All the men formerly at work for the Wilkesbarre Coal and Iron Company, have accepted Mr. PARRISH's proposition, and expect to resume on Thursday.

THE UNITARIANS.

Quarterly Conference—Sermons by Rev. Dr. Bellows.

The regular quarterly Conference of the Unitarian Church commenced last night, at Unity Chapel, One Hundred and Twenty-eighth street and Fourth-avenue. A large number of persons, including the ministers of all the Unitarian churches in the City, were present. The Conference opened with the usual religious exercises, which were conducted by Rev. W. R. CHENEY, the pastor, after which a hymn and form of prayer was offered by Rev. WILLIAM BURE, of Yonkers. The opening sermon was then preached by Rev. Dr. BELLOWS, who took his text from Genesis, sixth chapter, sixth verse: "It repented the Lord that he had made man on the earth, and it grieved him at his heart." The reverend gentleman spoke of the low estimate that man had always put upon his fellow-beings. From the beginning, man had considered himself far below what he should be, and every age had thought itself the most corrupt. If the Almighty had at any time taken men at their own estimate, the race would have been swept from the face of the earth; but God has given us these uncontrollable passions for his own wise purposes. Here the speaker returned to the corruption existing in Congress, in the Legislature, and above all, in social life, and said that it was choice to make us feel that all was going to destruction. But this has been the feeling of every age since history began. This dissatisfaction was the most hopeful sign of man's ultimate salvation. The passions that give us all so much trouble are a necessary part of human existence, for the Almighty knew what he was doing when he created man, and if he had not thought it necessary, man would have had no passions. The world, on the old-fashioned idea, which does not allow the theatre, or wine, or dancing, or any amusement, where only the virtuous were allowed to marry, would be unbearable, and human nature would not in it. In conclusion, the speaker urged that the conflict of discordant elements was necessary for human development, and would finally result in good to all.

The Conference continues this morning at 10 o'clock, when Rev. Mr. LOW, E. E. HALE, of Boston, Drs. FROTHINGHAM and BELLOWS, and many others, are expected to be present.

TAMPERING WITH THE CODE.

The Amendments to the Code of Procedure—How the Erie Clause Was Smuggled in—Tribulations at the "Boss"—An Contest on the Liberties of the People—Will the Governor Consummate Their Ruin?

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, N. Y., Monday, May 1, 1871.

Among the bills now before the Governor, the one upon which seems to centre the attention of a large number of influential men, is that containing the amendments that to reach particular cases, are annually made to the Code of Procedure. It has become so necessary that the many suits that are brought against the Erie Road should be under the control of the friends of that corporation, and the power of Mr. TWEED, who is one of the chiefs of Erie, became so potent in the politics of the State, nothing would seem more a matter of course than that some bill should so quietly through the Legislature providing for the safety of the Erie people. How was this to be done without exciting the inquiries of the Press, and thus put the people on their guard? Manifestly to prepare a bill, carefully worded, refer it to the Judiciary Committee, have it kept there until the last days of the session, place it among the Code amendments, and put it through when every one was tired and anxious to get home. Nothing could be more feasable than this, and the certainty of success seemed beyond a contingency. Thus was the little game planned, and the bill drawn was to the following effect: "It shall not be lawful for any Judge to order that the books of any corporation be produced in Court, but if the books are wanted, a copy of them, or of so much of them as are needed, sworn to by the officer in charge, shall be a sufficient production." What a field for the imagination of those gay freebooters Messrs. FISK and GOULD. To what limits could they not go under the powers granted by this bill? It was not safe that a bill so revolutionary should be introduced by a New-Yorker, so a quiet country member, so far away from Erie that the noise of that mighty road never disturbs his slumbers, was selected, and at the close of a Friday's session, while the House was in commotion over the coming recess of a half week, the bill was introduced, at once referred to the Judiciary Committee, and only seen by the parties interested. Later in the session, when but a few days remained for work, and those days shivered into doubtful discretion by the fear of the redoubtable IRVING, that so effectually upset the business habits of the Assembly, the bill having died unheard of, came to life as a section of the Code amendments. The lower House never examines with particular care this medley, since the name of law carries with it a sufficient guarantee that under it will be committed no very serious outrages, and so the pet of Erie was one-third through its troubles. On the Thursday evening preceding the adjournment the amendments came back from the Assembly for the Senate to concur in the additions there made, and then came the time of trouble for the friends of Erie. Senator TWEED grew anxious as the time approached for the bill to be taken up, and the fat face of the chief grew wonderfully rosy as he saw Senator HARDENBURGH go to the Clerk's desk, take up the bill and carefully examining it, place it back, return to his seat and patiently watch its announcement. TWEED was more than mortal could he have sat quiet now. "If anybody will get JAKE HARDENBURGH out for two minutes I'll do this and that," promising with the easy facility of one who plays at promises. The bill was reached, Senator HARDENBURGH asked for a Committee of Conference, and the eclipse New-Yorkerank into his seat, feeling that his great fight for Erie had miscarried. I say "great fight," for lesser victories were won, and are now before his Excellency for approval. One of these is the amendment to the 124th section of the Code, and it provides that in all actions against corporations the action must be brought and be triable in the County where the chief office is situated. In the future then the New-York Judges, who have so uniformly acted in favor of the Erie Road, are the only persons into whose hands can be placed the grievances of those outraged by the frequent unwholesome acts of that corporation. The Executive Chamber has been frequently visited by the counsel of the several interests opposed to Messrs. GOULD and FISK, and they say that the attention of the Governor has been called to the obnoxious section. It is fortunate that the provision mentioned in the first part of this letter did not become a law, since associated with this it would have been impossible to change the powers who now rule the great Erie Railroad, even if the falling power of Tammany made it necessary for that organization to further refuse to turn its entire political forces to its service. The code amendments that would fall if Mr. HOFFMAN refused to sanction this innovation are not important. A few local interests might be put off for another year, but the people would not suffer in any degree proportionate to the injury that would be permanently done to our institutions by such an unlawful exercise of legislative power in the interests of an aggressive corporation, as this change contemplates.

AMUSEMENTS.

Musical.

OPERA AT THE STADT THEATRE.

MEYERBEER'S "Africaine" was sung last evening at the Stadt Theatre for the benefit of Mme. LOUISE LICHTNAY, the leading artist of the company. An overflowing audience was gathered to greet the first hearing, in many years, of the master's posthumous work, and to reward the talent and industry of the lady, whom the occasion was intended to honor and reward. A smooth and satisfactory representation, though one not so creditable to the troupe as several enjoyed during the season now progressing, was supplied. The weakness of the Vasco de Gamma caused, principally, the difference in question. The part is not of excessive difficulty, but a tenor whose resources have been so completely exhausted as Mr. BERNARD's cannot begin to cope with it. The subsidiary roles also suffered mainly from a lack of vocal wealth in their supporters, and the chorus was scarcely so well acquainted with the score as to be able to atone for small numbers by exceeding spirit and unanimity. In spite of these very potent drawbacks to the attainment of an even relative perfection, the performance afforded much pleasure, and was accented, at not a few stages, by enthusiastic plaudits. The efforts of Mme. LICHTNAY, who was Selika, and of Mr. VIERLING, who was Nelusko, produced this effect. Mme. LICHTNAY delivered with infinite sweetness and delicacy the slumber song, commencing "In Grembo a Me," with much passion the duet in the fourth act, and with histrionic power, is among prima donnas, the grand scene under the Mancenilla-tree. Mr. VIERLING's personation of Nelusko was full of force and color, and his recital of "Adamastor, Re del Onde," and his acting in the interview with Selika, in the fourth act, when bending his love to his Sovereign's will, were very the points of a very striking picture. Last evening's rehearsal of "L'Africaine," which was ended at an unnecessarily late hour, suggests no more curious details than precedes. But as the opera is likely to have a run, we can read that later renderings will compel addenda to these brief notes. Before closing this record, however, we have to mention that the orchestra, under Mr. ADOLPH NEUENDORFF, read the minor with correctness and expressed it with spirit though it did not impart to that of the fourth act the increased beauties which a less hurried sounding of the Indian trumpet and a more solemnade utterance of the dance-piece would have created by the mere strength of contrast. "L'Africaine" is likely yet at the Stadt, and the attention to scenic detail is shown—and with capital consequences in form of demonstrations of approval—by the special engagement of a small corps de ballet, led by Mlle. MARIE MARWIG.

TO-NIGHT'S ANNOUNCEMENTS.

"La Traviata," will be sung at the Academy of Music this evening, the mass interest of the occasion being the début of Signor CARONELLI, tenor di grazia.... At Steinway Hall, this evening, the final concert of the Church Music Association, this season, is to occur. MENDELSSOHN's, "Moses Solomonlie," the music to "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and the overture to "Massaniello" are the numbers of the programme.

THE ICE EXTORTIONISTS.

The Colossal Monopoly That Succeeded Upon the Ice Consumers of New-York—A Chance for Our Citizens to Prevent a Repetition of Last Summer's Outrage—The Prosecution Ice Company the People's Only Refuge—An Appeal to the Public.

It is scarcely necessary to go into detail and rehearse the multitudinous contrivances which were resorted to by the great ice monopolists last Summer to compel the consumers of this necessary article to submit to an outrageous extortion. It is also equally unnecessary to recall to the minds of the large number of hotel proprietors, as well as private housekeepers of this City, the fact that the Knickerbocker Ice Company, with a capital of $2,000,000; the Washington, with $1,000,000; the Commercial, the pet child and aktmistaker of the Knickerbocker, with $100,000, and the National, with $75,000, forestalling the supposed scarcity of the supply in New-York, entered the Eastern market and bought up the entire product of the previous season. These powerful monopolists thus gained complete control of the supply on hand, and at once raised the price of their ice to an extortionate figure. The people indignantly remonstrated against the unjust exaction, and the Press, with hardly an exception, re-echoed the voices of its subscribers. They attacked with zeal the different monopolistic companies, and characterized the whole transaction as nothing more than an organized system of plundering of the most infamous description. The proprietors of nearly all the principal hotels, who were the greatest sufferers by the extortionate demands and violated contracts of the monopolists, at last adopted measures to protect themselves.

A company was organized called the Consumers' Ice Company, of which Col. RICHARD FRENCH was chosen President; Saml. HAWK, Vice-President; W. F. Earle, Treasurer; and Messrs. A. B. Darling, Fifth-avenue Hotel; Saml. Hawk, St. Nicholas Hotel; Cassius M. Bead, Hoffman House; Wm. F. Earle, Earle's Hotel; and R. French, of French's Hotel, the Trustees." In consequence of the monopolists having, as before stated, gained the control of the market, little could be done by the new Company last Summer to relieve the burden imposed upon the public. But, fortunately for the consumers, the protective company are now amply prepared. Since their organization they have built and filled, with the best quality of ice, the largest ice-house ever erected in this country. The buildings, barges, wagons and equipments of this Company are of the very best quality. The terms at which ice will be furnished this Summer will be 6¢ per ton to those using large quantities, and to families thirty-five cents per cwt. or forty cents per week. Receiving fifteen pounds a day and double the quantity on Saturday. To those the maximum charge, but if it is possible to do so, it will be much still lower. The Knickerbocker and its brother monopolists, it is understood, will make every effort to break down their competitors and enter the field afresh, prepared for a resumption of the old extortionate practice upon the public at large. In fact, the President of one of the principal ice companies only yesterday was heard to say that he only regretted that when he had the matter in his own hands last Summer, he had not insisted upon greater profits, and concluded his remarks with an oath and a threat that if such an opportunity is again offered, he would charge what he pleased, and if the people grumbled he would shut up his ice-vaults, and they might whistle for the ice.

There is no fear whatever of a scarcity of the commodity the ensuing Summer, as there is stocked in the different ice-houses along the Hudson considerably over 1,500,000 tons. This large supply, in connection with the enormous capital of the monopolists, will undoubtedly enable them to sell ice very low, if not below actual cost, and will necessarily be very formidable competitors of the people as represented by the protective company. To those who are the large army of private housekeepers, then, in contradistinction to the great consumers, the hotel proprietors, the packers, butchers, &c., that material support must be given a project which, beyond a doubt, will ultimately result to their advantage. The anti-monopolists say that they do not care to sell ice at less than cost, and extort a profit from it by giving light weight, and, in their address to their stockholders they further say that they are bound in honor to each other to sustain the Company against all opposition, by agreeing to purchase all the ice they may use in their business from it, as a price not to exceed 6¢ profit on a ton. The Company can only be thereby a success unless such a protection against a colossal monopoly, which will establish for less than cost to break down or buy off competition, is given.

They do not fear that any one among the stockholders will be so stupid or so mean as to be duped or tempted by the offer of ice so low that it can be sold with a reasonable profit, by parties who would, in the absence of competition, probably have charged double the price that they now have an object in offering it for; and, as clearly demonstrated by the remarks of the President, above quoted, will not hesitate, if ever the opportunity again offers, to repeat, probably to a greater degree, an infamous act of extortion.

Delmonico's, the Fifth-avenue, St. Nicholas, New-York Hotel, Hoffman House, Clarendon, Brevoort, St. James, Westminster, in fact all the first-class hotels in the City, with large majority of the pork and beef packers, and the butchers of Fulton and Washington Markets, have bound themselves to fight the monopolists to the bitter end

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

PROPOSALS.

PROPOSALS FOR POST-OFFICE ENVELOPES.

POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT,

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 24, 1871.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at this Department until FRIDAY, the 19th day of May, 1871, at 12 o'clock, for furnishing in such quantities, and at such times as may be required, the following described post-office envelopes, for a period of two years, commencing on the 1st day of July, 1871, to wit:

FOR OFFICIAL LETTERS AND RETURNS.

No. 1, size 3½ by 5½ inches; estimated number required annually, 4,000,000.

No. 2, size 4 by 9½ inches; estimated number required annually, 1,200,000.

No. 3, size 4 by 9 inches; estimated number required annually, 1,500,000.

No. 4, size 4½ by 10½ inches; estimated number required annually, 200,000.

FOR REGISTERED PACKAGES.

No. 5, size 6 by 10½ inches; estimated number required annually, 2,000,000.

The sizes of envelopes are intended as a guide to bidders. The Department may require more or less of each kind, as the service may demand.

Bids must be made for each kind of envelope separately, and the same will be awarded to item by item, to the lowest responsible bidder or bidders.

Specimens of the different sizes and styles of envelopes required, together with blank forms for bids, will be furnished on application to the Third Assistant Postmaster-General.

The envelopes must strictly conform in size, quality of paper, gumming and make, to the sample, the gumming being equal to lappes to be done in the best manner by hand. The envelopes must be packed in parcels of twenty-five, packed in strong pasteboard or straw boxes, securely bound with linen or cotton cords on the corners and edges, each to contain not less than 250 of sizes Nos. 1 and 2, and not less than 100 of the other sizes, or otherwise, as may be ordered, the boxes to be wrapped in strong manilla paper and properly tied, so as to bear safe transportation by mail to Postmasters. When required to be delivered at the Department, the wrapping may be dispensed with, in the discretion of the Postmaster-General.

When 5,000 or more envelopes are required to fill the order of a Postmaster, or when large lots are ordered to be sent to the Post-office Department, they must be put up in wooden cases and properly addressed, but when less than 5,000 are required to be sent by mail, proper labels of direction must be placed on each package; all to be done by the contractor without extra charge.

The envelopes must be delivered in such quantities as may from time to time be required to fill the orders of Postmasters or of the Department, and be delivered either at the Post-office in the city where the accepted bidder resides, or at the Post-office at the Postmaster-General may direct, free of cost for packing, labeling and delivering; the whole to be done under the inspection and supervision of an agent of the Department.

All the envelopes herein described must bear such printing as the Postmaster-General may direct, and the registered package envelopes will be required to be printed in vermilion or some other approved brilliant color.

The Postmaster-General reserves the right to reject any and all bids, if in his judgment the interests of the Government require it.

Each offer or bid must be signed by the individual or firm making it, and be accompanied by a guarantee certified to be responsible and sufficient by the Postmaster or United States Attorney where the bidder resides; that the bidder shall, within ten days after being called upon to do so, execute a contract to furnish promptly, and in quantities as ordered, the articles or articles awarded to him, to be accompanied by a bond, with approved security, in a penalty of not less than twice the contract price of all the articles estimated to be furnished by said bidder, conditioned upon the faithful performance of the same.

Proposals unaccompanied by such guarantee will not be considered.

The Postmaster-General reserves to himself the right to annul the contract if in his judgment there shall be a failure to perform faithfully any of its stipulations, or in case of a willful attempt to impose upon the Department envelopes inferior to samples, or to evade or fail to comply with any one order under the contract, will operate as a forfeiture of the entire penalty of the bond under the twenty-seventh section of the act of Congress approved Aug. 14, 1848, entitled "An act to establish the Post-office Department," and making appropriations for such necessary objects as are therein enumerated included in the General Appropriation bills, without authority of law, and to fix and provide for certain other objects in connection with the Departments and offices of the Government, and for other purposes" (U. S. Statutes at Large, vol. 9, page 256,) or the Postmaster-General may, in his discretion, direct the purchase in open market of such quantities of envelopes as shall be necessary to supply the deficiency caused by such failure, and charge to the contractor or contractors any per centum of the price which it shall be found necessary to pay for such articles.

Bids should be securely enveloped and sealed, marked "Proposals for Post-office Envelopes," and addressed to the Third Assistant Postmaster-General, Post-office Department, Washington, D. C.

JOHN A. J. CRESWELL,

Postmaster-General.

Motion for an Attachment Against Jay Gould for Contempt of Court.

His Affidavit—He Disclaims all Disourtesy to the Court—Discussion of the Motion—Decision Reserved.

In the United Court District Court yesterday before Judge BLATCHFORD, the motion for an attachment against JAY GOULD for refusing to comply with the orders of the Master on the Coleman reference for the production of the books of the Company containing inventories of the disposition of the stock of HEATH and RAPHAEL, which they allege they were robbed of by the directors of the Erie Railway Company, came on for argument. Messrs. EVARTS and SOUTHMAYD represented HEATH and RAPHAEL, and Mr. W. A. BEACH appeared in the interest of JAY GOULD.

ARGUMENT OF MR. SOUTHMAYD.

Mr. SOUTHMAYD said in the case of HEATH and RAPHAEL, at the suit of the Erie Railway Company, he had an order for a motion to show cause directed to two points, first as attachment against JAY GOULD personally, for his refusal to produce certain books and papers as directed by the Master, or for such other order in relation to those books and papers as to the Court may seem proper, and secondly an application to enlarge for greater caution the scope of the order of reference made in this case—the enlargement becoming necessary from the discovery in the course of the reference of certain facts which could not be anticipated when the original order was made. Counsel then proceeded to narrate the various incidents connected with this litigation as developed in the reference before the Master, the transfer of the property of HEATH and RAPHAEL by COLEMAN, the receiver, to the directors of the Erie Railroad, the issue of 2,000,000 of the stock in question and the subsequent issue of 20,000 new shares; the issue of the 2,000,000 of convertible bonds in a fraudulent and illegal manner; the evidence of the existence of the books containing inventories of the disposition of the stock, and the final refusal of JAY GOULD, in defiance of the repeated orders of the Court, to produce them for examination. He commented strongly on Mr. GOULD'S evidence, and the manifest disposition evinced by him to frustrate every attempt at justice by a judicial inquiry. Though President of the Erie Railroad, he denied any knowledge of a general control of the books of the corporation; he is perfectly ignorant on the question whether his employes would produce the books on his direction; and finally, when the transfer clerk expresses his willingness to obey an order of such a nature emanating from him, he is dressed down in a lofty fear and reverence for equitable rights and by laws as he never felt before for anything in the "heavens, the earth, or the waters under the earth." All attempts failed to dissuade him from the idea of doing that wrong; and at length, on the Master's report of his disobedience, this motion was made. Their application was for an attachment, issue against GOULD for contempt in refusing to produce those books, but what they really sought was the books themselves. It was a mere question of putting him on prison for contempt, and what they really sought was an order by which these books be seized. It was not a mere trifling, or that he be committed, or that the Court issue such further order as would produce the end they desired. In respect to the motion for an enlargement of the powers of the Master, the difficulties that presented themselves to the investigation could not possibly have been anticipated. When the order of the Court was taken, they had, most outrageously, they regarded it as a robbery, and did not hesitate so to characterize it; but they did not know that after FISK in a bold manner had robbed them, GOULD in a sneaking manner had also stolen their property and put the proceeds in his pocket. With these new facts before them the original order did not confer sufficient power on the Master to prosecute the investigation thoroughly, by an inquiry into all the circumstances bearing on the case, such power as would prevent the defendants at every stage of the proceedings to procrastinate by trick and device. He wanted a search into all the circumstances attending the issue of the 2,000,000 of convertible bonds, and the entire disposition of their property, and reminded the Court, upon the evidence, that until these books were brought before the master, the entire case was completely stopped. In a calm spirit he asked that the application be reviewed, and the interests of justice considered.

AFFIDAVIT OF MR. GOULD.

Mr. WILLIAM A. BEACH, on behalf of the Erie Railway Company, submitted the following affidavit of JAY GOULD:

That there is no disposition on the part of the Erie Railway Company, so far as this defendant is informed, nor on the part of the deponent to obstruct or embarrass a full examination, by the defendants and their counsel, of the books of the Company; that THE said Company and this deponent have been advised by counsel, and believes, in this correctly, that the production of said books in Court cannot be legally required, and that no officer of said Company has the power to move or cause to be moved said books from their proper place of deposit in the offices of said Company; that while there are many books containing the records of past transactions which might be temporarily so moved, the production in Court of such as would be required by the extended order sought by the defendants would seriously interrupt the management of the daily business of said Company, and be likely to produce irremediable confusion in the offices of said Company and irreparable injury to its interests; that said Company and this deponent and each of the officers of said Company, so far as this deponent has knowledge or control, are entirely willing and ready to furnish the defendants sworn copies of any entries upon said books they may require, or to submit said books to the inspection of their counsel at the office of said Company, and to afford to them every facility for their complete examination, and this deponent, as President of said Company, hereby offers to do so; and this deponent further says that his reluctance before the master to direct the production of the books of said Company, as required by the several orders, did not proceed from any disrespect for that officer, or for the authority of this Court, nor from any desire to prohibit their examination, but from the conviction, then and now entertained by this defendant, that he had no authority to move them from the possession of their proper custodians in the office of said Company, or to direct such removal, as he had been advised by his counsel, and from the further conviction that to do so would inevitably embarrass the affairs of, and inflict causeless injury upon said Company. And this deponent further says that it is not and has not been the purpose of this deponent nor of said Company, nor its officers, so far as he is informed, to deprive the defendants or any other person of the possession and advantage of any certificates of the stock of said Company to which they are lawfully entitled; that the possession by HEATH and RAPHAEL of the certificates for 20,000 shares of said stock mentioned in the proceedings in this action was obtained under unusual circumstances, which are particularly hereinafter described, and that such possession as this deponent believes was not founded upon any real ownership by them of said shares, but originated in a unique and fraudulent stock jobbing design, which, if successful, would have been detrimental to the interests of said Company; that this suit was instituted in the Supreme Court of the State of New-York to prevent the consummation of that design and to compel the restitution of such stock to the control of its real owner; that this suit was abandoned by the plaintiffs under the advice of counsel, for the reason that the complainant did not fully present the grounds upon which relief was asked and from considerations arising out of the partial removal of this case into this Court; and a new suit was instituted in said State Court with the same objects which are now pending in that Court, and its condition is now particularly stated in the papers on the record in this Court in this action; that this action by an order of said Supreme Court of the State was unwarrantably removed to this Court, these 20,000 shares of stock mentioned in the proceedings there in the hands of the receiver duly appointed by said Supreme Court, were directed to be surrendered by said receiver to the said Company, and to be by him exchanged for new certificates thereupon issued to him as such receiver; that such surrender and exchange were made before this suit was removed to this Court, and the original certificates for the 20,000 shares were in obedience to said order surrendered to said Company by said receiver, and new certificates issued thereupon to him by said Company; that such order was made by a Justice of said Supreme Court, and was afterward, and before the action was removed into this Court, made an order of the Court, and the same has ever since remained in force, and unvacated. That this deponent has no wish or desire, nor has the said Company, to be knowledge, to prevent or hinder the due registration of the substituted shares so issued to said receiver, but on the contrary, for the purpose of facilitating such registration, the said Company has already published the notice required by the rule of the New-York Stock Exchange as preliminary to the registry of the newly-issued stock mentioned in the proceedings, the time of which notice will expire in about fifteen days, whereupon no obstruction will exist to the registration of the said certificates held by the said receiver. And this deponent further says that the issue of 20,000 shares of new stock mentioned in the master's return herein was required by the necessities of said Company; that as this deponent is advised and believes, it was lawfully issued; that the use of the certificates so as aforesaid surrendered by said receiver, as the basis for a registration of such new stock, was solely to avoid the delay in its issue, which would necessarily follow from compliance with the rule of the Stock Exchange by giving thirty days' notice of such intended issue, and that any other canceled certificates would have answered the same purpose; that, although as this deponent is advised by his counsel and believes, an inquiry into the circumstances rendering such new issue necessary and affecting its validity is not pertinent in this action, nevertheless, if ordered by this Court, this deponent is ready to afford every facility for such investigation in the manner hereinbefore afforded, and he believes that the said Company and each of its officers will do so.

ARGUMENT OF MR. BEACH.

Mr. BEACH, in a heartbroken argument, supported the allegations contained in Mr. GOULD'S affidavit. He did not appear, he said, as a substitute for any counsel, and he was authorized by Mr. PIERREPONT to contradict the rumor which prevailed that he retired from the case in disgust of the action of Mr. GOULD in the proceedings before the Master. Referring to the motion and the cause which originated it, he remarked that Mr. GOULD'S action was the result of legal advice, and though President of the Company, his powers were by no means arbitrary, and could never be exercised outside of the regular discharge of business and the public duties of the corporation. The embarrassments and difficulties resulting from his absence of the books of a corporation whose receipts were $100,000 monthly, were palpable, and he did not see what reasonable objection could be offered to their fair and candid inspection in the office of the Company. In this connection he cited an authority from the 14th of Howard's Practice Reports, showing that any officer of a corporation could not direct the production of the books of the Company in open Court, and opinion of the Judges of the Supreme Court ordering their inspection in the Company's offices. If, as was pretended, the counsel merely wanted an examination of those books, every facility would be afforded him for this purpose; but it appeared to him there was another motive inciting the application. In regard to the epithets so flippantly launched against Mr. GOULD, he did not think they would have any weight with the Court; but he denied that the evidence warranted the accusation of robbery and theft. He asked what was the object of the attachment now sought to be obtained? It was said to be with a view to trace the new stock to its present holders. But was it contended that these third parties could be compelled to deliver up this stock? This question was not before the Court, and no relief could be granted upon the cancellation of what is called the fraudulent issue of new stock. What they wanted, if they sought justice, was the restoration of this property, and that, his client was perfectly willing to assist them in obtaining. On the question of the issue of the convertible bonds, he maintained that the expenses of the condition rendered it necessary, and added that the difficulties which then arose in the Company not only justified it, but in the interest of the stockholders and the public generally made it an absolute necessity. He denied that the issue of new stock depreciated the market value of the stock of HEATH and RAPHAEL. The custom of registration in the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company did not affect the legal value of stock, and if they were taken to England and the Continent, where they were purchased, they would sell in the market unprejudiced by the regulations which here existed. In conclusion, he refuted the imputations to disregard the sworn affidavits of Mr. GOULD, and observed that he sought nothing but justice, without any intention to deceive or mislead any one.

REJOINDER OF MR. EVARTS.

Mr. EVARTS replied on behalf of HEATH and RAPHAEL. Having referred to the general proceedings antecedent to this litigation, he asserted that up to the commencement of the case it was not pretended that any one had a particle of interest in that stock other than his clients. Now what was the situation? In the course of the investigation the Court had directed before the Master, they came to a point where the oral testimony was interrupted by the witness's inability to continue his answers without the aid of certain books of the Company. Then the Court, standing impartially between the complainants and the Erie Railway Company, directs that these books should be produced. Then there were all sorts of efforts to induce the Court to go to the Erie office instead of the Erie office coming to the Court, imagining that the Grand Opera-house, with all its attractions, would easily beguile them from this rusty old house, and the change would be much more suitable to the interests of the Erie Railway and the dignity of the United States. He denied the power to compel the change to the Grand Opera-house. If they were not entitled to the books of the Company, why then they could not get them as a favor, but if as a matter of right they were entitled to them, they appealed to the power of the Court to sustain that right. The examination of every witness who was produced on behalf of the railway testified against his own interest, and their recollection of facts was impeded either by ignorance or an unprecedented susceptibility to do wrong. Mr. GOULD declined to produce these books, and he declined to change the Court to the Grand Opera-house. Individual Judges might hold Court there, but as he was not desirous of promoting a single interest of Mr. GOULD'S, officially, personally or pecuniarily, he declined to sanction such a proceeding. He concluded a pointed address by asking for the order prayed for.

Judge BLATCHFORD took the papers and reserved his decision.

Naval Intelligence.

Consul BOLESLAWSKI, accompanied by the commander of the Austrian frigate Novarra, visited the Brooklyn Navy-yard, yesterday, and were entertained by Rear-Admiral SMITH.

Capt. M. B. WOOLSEY, the Executive officer at the Brooklyn Navy-yard, received orders yesterday to report, after the 20th inst., to Washington for examination for the rank of Commodore. He will be relieved at this station by Capt. C. H. B. CALDWELL.

Capt. J. W. A. NICHOLSON will be relieved from ordnance duty at the Brooklyn Navy-yard on the 10th inst., and will sail on the 23d inst. in the Brazil steamer, to take command of the United States flag-ship Lancaster, of Rear-Admiral LEMMAN'S fleet. His successor at the Yard has not yet been named. Capt. S. D. TRENCHARD, commanding the Lancaster, will return home as soon as relieved.

The famous flag-ship Hartford was put into the Dry Dock yesterday, preparatory to being fitted out.

The officers of the United States steam-ship Wachusetts are to report for duty on the 1st of June, when the ship will be put on commission. The sloop Saratoga, fitting for the Naval Academy practice cruise, will sail from New-York on the 15th inst. Commander RALPH CHANDLER will deliver her to the Academy officers at Annapolis, whither she will be towed by the Catalpa.

The United States steam-ship Omaha is probably the next vessel to be fitted out at the Brooklyn Yard. Commander A. K. BENHAM is spoken of as the officer to command her. She is now receiving her engines.

The machinery of the United States steam-ship Tennessee is to receive a thorough overhauling under the superintendency of Chief Engineer WOOD, Inspector of Machinery afloat.

The Court-martial of which Rear-Admiral C. H. BELL is President, is still in session, having before it some minor cases.

The Department of Public Parks.

The Commissioners of Parks, yesterday, adopted resolutions requesting the Corporation counsel to postpone the motion for the confirmation of the report of the Riverside Park proceedings at least thirty days; giving the Select Committee on the Morse Statue power to select a new site for the Seventh Regiment Monument; calling on the Controller for $100,000 for the expenses of the improvement of Seventh-avenue, from One Hundred and Tenth-street to the Harlem River; and authorizing measures to acquire title to the land included in the lines of Ninety-seventh and Ninety-eighth streets, Eighth-avenue and the Boulevard, "for the use of the public."

Held Bank Robbery.

WM. H. WATKINS, yesterday, went into the private office of JOHN Q. JONES, at the Chemical Bank, and, while engaging his attention, took from the drawer fifteen coupons of railroad bonds—twelve worth $413, being on the Evansville and Crawfordsville Railroad, and three worth $61 62, on the Cleveland and Pittsburg Railroad. WATKINS immediately proceeded to No. 25 Exchange-place, where he sold the twelve coupons to THOMAS J. BARRETT, for their face value, as they were due on May 1. During the afternoon he tried to sell the other three at the same place, but while attempting to do so, he was arrested and taken to the Tombs, where he was held by Justice HOGAN for examination, to take place on Thursday.

Mysterious Suicide at the Stevens House.

About 11½ o'clock on Monday forenoon a lady, aged about thirty-two, who was attired in black silk, and who registered herself from Long Island, walked into the Stevens House, Broadway, with a small valise and a few packages in her hand, and desired to hire a room for three nights. She first asked for a dollar room, but all being engaged, she accepted room No. 48, at $1 50 per night. Yesterday morning at 11 o'clock the chamber-maid visited her room for the purpose of cleaning it up, and found the door locked. The key not being in the office, it was supposed the lady did not wish to be disturbed, and no notice was taken of the affair until 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when it was decided to force open the door. The lady was then found lying dead on the bed, with the side of her face on the pillow, a large bottle of chloroform in her hands, and her fingers tightly pressing her nostrils, while the neck of the bottle being in her mouth, she thus inhaled the poisonous compound which had taken her life. On the table lay a note, of which the following is a copy:

MONDAY EVENING, May 1.

Proprietors of Stevens House:

DEAR SIRS: Forgive a heart-broken woman anything. I shall never haunt this room, if no one need be afraid to occupy it. Please help to have me buried as soon as possible, and may God bless you with prosperity. I have no relatives, no one; but I have tried to make friends, and I am quite sure they will come for me to-morrow or Wednesday morning.

E. R. HARRINGTON.

P. S.—I suppose a Coroner will have to be summoned. Well, the facts are before him—all he will over-state. I did not poison the chloroform in this City or State. No one is to blame but myself; no soul on earth knows how I got it but myself. I have taken my life because I have no means, employment or friends to aid me. I cannot live, so I die. Forgive me as ye hope to be forgiven.

BASE-BALL.

The Amateur Excursions for the Field—Playing Ball for Recreative Exercise.

| Alaska | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 |

Today the Eckfords play the Young Stags, and they are going to try to do the same to them.

Yesterday the Haymakers had a practice match with the Putnams, in order to get into trim to meet the Boston nine next Tuesday.

Stabbing Affray in Hoboken.

Last evening PATRICK O'NEIL and JAMES O'NEIL, brothers, and PATRICK DUFFY, entered the liquor-store of MICHAEL CAHILL, on Newark-street, Hoboken, and commenced drinking. After taking several rounds they became so engrossed in conversation that several drinks were consumed before payment was offered. When the reckoning was demanded, a dispute ensued. Mr. GILL became excited and rushed from behind the bar, understanding to compel the proceeding in putting out DUFFY and returned to get rid of the O'NEILS, when, as alleged, PATRICK drew his pocket-knife and stabbed MCGILL in the right side. The bar-tender was conveyed to a drug-store and subsequently to his home, while the fighters were allowed to depart without being even questioned.

The Commissioners of Appeals.

The Commissioners of Appeals appointed under the reorganization of the Judiciary by the amendment to the Constitution, are holding a term in New-York to dispose of old cases from the First Judicial District. On the special calendar prepared for this term the oldest appeal is dated March 8, 1866, and the most recent Sept. 2, 1866.

The personnel of the Court is as follows: JOHN A. LOTT, Chief Commissioner; Robert Earl, Ward Hunt, Hiram Gray and Wm. H. Leonard, Commissioners; W. H. Benjamin, Clerk, and Samuel Hand, reporter.

The business, yesterday, was in great measure hearing motions and correcting the calendar. Only two cases were argued.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

NEW-YORK.

Last evening a select company of medical and scientific gentlemen, composing the East River Medical Association, assembled at the residence of Dr. WILLIAM F. THOMS for the purpose of listening to the reading of a paper by the doctor, and the exhibition of his life charts, showing the effects of the physical influences on life. The lecture and charts exhibited the effects of temperature, humidity, density and weight of the atmosphere, electrical conditions, inertia and other physical influences. The author of the paper was highly complimented at the close of the reading, and was encouraged to pursue his investigations, with the assurance that they would result in much benefit to science.

Between thirty and forty of the quarrymen, who have been on strike, went yesterday, shortly after noon, to intimidate the men working for Mr. TEACEY, at Eighty-sixth-street and Boulevard road. Sergt. OSBORNE and the reserve force of the Thirty-first Precinct Police drove them along the transverse road of the Central Park at a full run into the Fifth-avenue, down which they turned evidently disheartened.

At the meeting of the New-York Produce Exchange held yesterday, the preamble and bylaws reported from the Committee were discussed and voted upon seriatim. Every article and section was passed, only one or two slight verbal changes being made. The Board of Managers to engage rooms for the use of the Exchange was limited to contracts for one year. An effort was also made to exclude from the Board of Managers all stockholders in the Produce Exchange Co., which owns the building now used by the Exchange, but it was unsuccessful.

A lady correspondent complains that she cannot get her letters from Station D, which she requested some friends in Europe to address to her at that office, as she contemplated a change of residence. The clerk, she says, promised three weeks ago to send her letters to her address, but has neglected to do so. Last Saturday she went to Station D, and saw bins for letters, including one addressed to her, from a pigeon-hole and return them thither, saying there were none for her.

The following disreputable house-keepers, arrested by Capt. MCDONNELL, of the Eighth Precinct, on Monday night, were released by Justice SHANDLEY yesterday, on furnishing bonds for $500, to appear for trial at the General Sessions: James Woods, No. 123 Greene-street; Caroline Bermore, No. 123 Greene-street; Fanny Rily, No. 171 Greene-street; David and Francis Williams, No. 409 Canal-street, and Getrude Hill, No. 177 Greene-street. The inmates, about thirty-six number, were released after signing bonds for $300 for good behavior.

HUGH BLESSON, who shot the alleged seducer of his daughter, was released on bail by Judge BEDFORD, yesterday.

BROOKLYN.

The Republican General Committee held their monthly meeting last night, and after much debate adopted a set of by-laws for the ensuing year—differing but little from those in force in the past.

Ex-Lieut.-Gov. STEWART L. WOODFORD delivered a lecture last night before a large audience in the Adelphi Academy, on "Mirthfulness." He was warmly received by the audience, and heartily applauded during the delivery, and at the close of his effort.

About $200 worth of dry goods in the show-window of the store of JOHN L. DAVIS, at No. 187 Fulton-street, was accidentally destroyed by fire about 7 o'clock last night. The damage was caused by a piece of light fabric coming in contact with the gas-jet.

MRS. ROBERT EMMET, of No. 342 Grand-avenue, reported to the Police last night that she had been robbed of about $300 worth of jewelry by a religious-looking young man, wearing crape on his hat, who obtained entrance to her house on pretense of looking for board.

The Board of Education, yesterday, ordered bills for April, amounting to $25,000, to be paid. The report of the Special Committee on sites for school-houses was adopted. Among the expenditures thus sanctioned were the following: for the addition of six new class-rooms to School No. 3, $20,000; for the conversion of School No. 4 into a primary, $60,000; for adding eight rooms to No. 28, and repairing play-ground, $18,000; and for the erection of a new school at the corner of Hoyt and President streets, $76,000. Total, $165,000.

There were twenty fires in Brooklyn during the past month, six of which were caused by the careless use of kerosene, eight by the use of matches by children, and one by an incendiary. The total amount of property destroyed was $126,555 worth, and the insurance on the same amounted to $125,000.

In the Supreme Court, yesterday, on motion of Mr. DE WITT, Corporation Counsel, Judge DEADY issued an order, returnable on Monday next, requiring the Mayor to show cause why a peremptory mandamus should not be issued compelling him to sign $1,400,000 worth of City bonds for the construction of the proposed new reservoir in Hempstead Valley. The Mayor don't believe the city wants the reservoir, and therefore refuses to sign the bonds.

Five new cases of small-pox were reported at the Health Office yesterday; three in the Western and two in the Eastern District. The subjects were removed to the hospital.

There were 745 patients treated in the Long Island College Hospital during April; 220 of whom were males and 426 females.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

Mr. D. F. H. SECOR, a resident of Mount Vernon, has been indicted for perjury, in having, in a suit before the Court at White Plains, with a view of obtaining a postponement of trial, made oath that a person named RAPELYE was a material witness in his behalf, and that he (SECOR) was at the time unable to ascertain RAPELYE'S whereabouts, while it was subsequently shown that SECOR and RAPELYE had been seen together on the very day SECOR made the affidavit in question.

On Monday a colored man named CHARLES KENNA was arrested on board of the schooner Dallas, lying in the Hudson River, opposite Tarrytown, on a charge of having threatened to take the life of Capt. SAWYER and his mate. Deputy Sheriff BARDEN took the accused before Justice MANN, of Tarrytown, who committed him to the County Jail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

STATEN ISLAND.

THOMPSON L. BOORLEY, a rough-looking individual, was sentenced to the County Jail, yesterday, by Judge KILPATRICK, on the charge of stabbing a youth named GEORGE WHITMORE, in the left side with a pocket-knife, inflicting serious wounds. Both parties reside at West Brighton.

THOMAS DELANY, aged fourteen years, was accidentally drowned about sunset yesterday afternoon, in the Kills near the Factoryville Landing. He was fishing for eels with two or three companions. The body was subsequently recovered by the laborers in the neighborhood.

The residence of GEORGIANA WAY, (a widow lady,) back of Post Richmond, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday morning. It was caused, as usual, by children playing with matches in the nursery. Loss, $2,000.

NEW-JERSEY.

Miss MINNIE C. SWAYZE'S lecture on "Woman's Abilities," at Princeton, Monday evening, drew out a very intelligent audience, whose absorbed attention, quick appreciation and warm applause showed either a sympathy with the sentiments advanced, or an admiration for the earnestness and enthusiasm of the youthful speaker. In this lecture, Miss SWAYZE claims that women have shown equal abilities in the past, wherever they have had equal opportunities, and, in proving it, cites numerous examples of the past and present, interspersed with shafts of wit, delicate satire and a pathos which held her audience, at times, in a breathless attention.

The New-Jersey State Homeopathic Society met yesterday in Library Hall, Newark, Dr. J. J. YOULIN, of Jersey City, presiding. Forty members were present, comprising the principal practitioners in the State. Dr. YOULIN, in a lengthy address, narrated the history of the Society. During the forenoon reports of auxiliary societies were received, and in the afternoon a general discussion of medical subjects engaged the attention of the members. The following members were elected: J. B. BERRY, of Bloomfield; WM. J. ANDREWS, Newark, and ISAAC COOPER, Frenchtown.

The Controller of the State of New-Jersey has furnished the Collector of Essex County a statement of the tax for school purposes for that county. The entire amount is $903,878.

The newly-elected Board of Jersey City Aldermen met for the first time last evening. The Mayor, in his message, characterized the new city charter as, in many of its features, objectionable. It was a law, however, and obedience was necessary. He called upon all law-abiding citizens to aid, so far as possible, the carrying out of its provisions, and to accomplish as good a work as might be with an imperfect instrument.

In the Middlesex County Court, at New-Brunswick, yesterday, the jury in the case of the State vs. SAMUEL NIXON, (colored,) returned a verdict of aggravated assault, after being out forty-nine hours. Judge SCUDDER sentenced NIXON to pay a fine of $500, and be imprisoned in the State Prison for two years.

A verdict was rendered by a New-Brunswick jury, yesterday, in the case of JACOB FRAZEE, indicted for committing an atrocious assault and battery on JOHN STUHL, at Jamesburg, in November of last year, by shooting him in the head with a gun. The jury, after being out about two hours, returned a verdict of assault and battery, and recommended him to mercy.

Yesterday two Boards of Chosen Freeholders for Hudson County organized in the Court-house, Jersey City, with all the prescribed formalities, and each claims to be justified by law.

ADAM BURGER, a young man of twenty-one, was walking home with a young lady, about eleven o'clock on Monday night, when he was assaulted in Bank-street by two ruffians, one of whom, JOHN DUFFY, stabbed him with a knife. Both were arrested and locked up. It was shown upon investigation that the assault was prompted by jealousy.
